Anthropology Put to Work Les Field, Richard G. Fox, 2020-05-19

How do anthropologists work today and how will they work in future While some anthropologists have recently called for a new public or engaged anthropology profound changes have already occurred leading to new kinds of work for a large number of anthropologists The image of anthropologists reaching out from protected academic positions to a vaguely defined public is out of touch with the working conditions of these anthropologists especially those junior and untenured The papers in this volume show that anthropology is put to work in diverse ways today They indicate that the new conditions of anthropological work require significant departures from canonical principles of cultural anthropology such as replacing ethnographic rapport with multiple forms of collaboration This volume s goal is to help graduate students and early career scholars accept these changes without feeling something essential to anthropology has been lost There really is no other choice for most young anthropologists

Media, Anthropology and Public Engagement Sarah Pink, Simone

Abram, 2015-10-01 Contemporary anthropology is done in a world where social and digital media are playing an increasingly significant role where anthropological and arts practices are often intertwined in museum and public intervention contexts and where anthropologists are encouraged to engage with mass media Because anthropologists are often expected and inspired to ensure their work engages with public issues these opportunities to disseminate work in new ways and to new publics simultaneously create challenges as anthropologists move their practice into unfamiliar collaborative domains and expose their research to new forms of scrutiny In this volume contributors question whether a fresh public anthropology is emerging through these new practices
