

POPULISM

Populism is a type of ideology that believes society to be divided into the 'people' and the 'elite'.

OVERVIEW

Populism is characterized by appealing to the interests and concerns of ordinary people against a perceived elite or establishment. It often emphasizes the notion of a "pure" and homogeneous people and seeks to promote their interests over minority groups or elite institutions.

Populist leaders often employ rhetoric that stokes nationalistic and anti-establishment sentiments.

EXAMPLES

- Hugo Chávez: The former Venezuelan President implemented social programs aimed at addressing poverty and inequality, while often challenging economic elites.
- Silvio Berlusconi: The former Prime Minister of Italy utilized his media empire to connect with the public, promising to challenge the political establishment and champion the interests of ordinary Italians.
