becoming human Gary G. Tunnell, 1973 Culture and Biology: Becoming Human Gary G. Tunnell, 1973 Being Human Richard Gross, 2019-03-20

While there may be no one single characteristic that differentiates humans as a species it is the combination of differences from other species that makes us unique The new edition of Being Human examines the psychology of being human through exploring different psychological traditions alongside philosophy and evolutionary theory covering themes such as culture cognition language morality and society Our nature or essence is something that has preoccupied human beings throughout our history beginning with philosophy and religion and continuing through the biological social and psychological sciences Being Human begins by describing some of the major philosophical accounts of human nature from Ancient Greek philosophers such as Plato and Aristotle to major British and Continental philosophers such as Locke and Nietzsche The book considers religious accounts of human nature with their focus on the nature of good and evil and scientific accounts of genetics and the brain which underpin the distinctively human cognitive ability of language Attention then turns to the ideas of the behaviourists such as Skinner Freud and other psychodynamic psychologists and humanistic phenomenological psychologists such as Maslow Finally human culture is discussed as the ultimate defining characteristic of human beings culture represents our natural habitat and what defines us as a species This updated second edition includes increased coverage of social psychology and has a broader scope in order to identify the defining characteristics of human beings With reference to current psychological research and philosophical material this is fascinating reading for students of psychology philosophy and the social sciences Being Human Anna L. Peterson, 2001-05-26 Being Human is one of the few books that begins to integrate theological narratives with scientific ones looking for a compelling correlation between them where modern and religious sensibilities might both be affirmed This is a unique work Bron Taylor Professor and Director of Environmental Studies University of Wisconsin Oshkosh and author of Ecological Resistance Movements The Global Emergence of Radical and Popular Environmentalism Being Human succeeds at accounting for people's conception of humanness and human's relationship with nature no easy task but one that is a crucial starting point for any discussion of environmental ethics Kay Read Associate Professor of Comparative Ethics and Native American Religions DePaul University and author of Time and Sacrifice in the Aztec Cosmos Anna Peterson's Being Human is a stellar work of integration Peterson argues that the ideology of human exceptionalism and disconnection from the rest of nature is a major source of social and ecological harm She draws together cultural constructionist Asian Native American feminist and evolutionary thought to present a view of the human as both an integral part of nature and a creator of culture called to develop an ethic of interrelationality for the sake of the wellbeing of the whole earth community Rosemary Radford Ruether Garrett Theological Center author of Gaia and God An Ecofeminist Theology of Earth Healing In the postmodern academic climate of slice and dice take no prisoners analysis and critical theory Anna Peterson's book is a welcome breath of fresh air She positions her discussion as a development of rather than a deconstructive triumph over earlier work in the field of environmental philosophy Peterson takes up the themes that are absolutely central to the field the nature of nature human nature and the appropriate relationship between the two Her conclusions are well informed well reasoned reasonable and last but not least beautifully and engagingly expressed Baird Callicott Professor of Philosophy and Religion Studies University of North Texas and author of Earth's Insights: A Multicultural Survey of Ecological Ethics from the Mediterranean Basin to the Australian Outback California 1997 In Defense of the Land: Essays in Environmental Philosophy and Beyond the Land Ethic: More Essays in Environmental Philosophy Peterson challenges us to think critically about the ideas about nature and humanity that shape our ethical behavior She also brings into critical dialogue insights from a wide variety of religious traditions Buddhist Taoist Navaho Koyukon Catholic and Protestant Peterson helps us think creatively and critically about the task of comparative ethics and the imperatives of environmental ethics This book is a must read for any one concerned with environmental ethics and with comparative ethics Sharon Welch Professor of Religious Studies at the University of Missouri Columbia and author of A Feminist Ethic of Risk: Sweet Dreams in America Making Ethics and Spirituality Work and Communities of Resistance and Solidarity: A Feminist Theology of Liberation Culture, Society and Sexuality Richard Guy Parker, Peter Aggleton, 1999 This work offers an introduction to the central debates in sexuality research Among the issues examined are the social and cultural dimensions of sex human sexuality and sex research The Month, 1972
