Post-1945 Art Collections and Regional Research Networks Sophie Hatchwell, Hana Leaper, 2026-02-19 Taking a consciously regional perspective this volume evaluates the mechanisms and motivations that underpin collaborations between higher education and public art galleries in the Midlands and Northwest of England Presenting a series of case studies of collaborative projects undertaken by the co authors the chapters argue for the importance of developing equitable and sustainable partnerships across sectors setting mutual long term goals the respectful articulation of respective priorities and identifying shared ethical values These proposed ideal conditions developed through collaborative practice are framed by and rooted in specific regional contexts of exhibition production and spectatorship museum funding the civic function of universities and local art histories and cultural identities The authors show how co produced research can harness regionally rooted expertise to intervene in nationally relevant debates around British cultural histories and identities as well as contribute to the broader discourse around regional practice and collaboration The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history museum studies and curatorial studies

Cultural Identities and the Aesthetics of Britishness Dana Arnold, 2004-07-02 This book examines British imperial colonial and postcolonial national identities within their political and social contexts By considering the export adoption and creation of such cultural identities these essays show how nationhood and nationalism are self consciously defined tools designed to focus and inspire loyalty The contributors present these ideas with particular reference to English cultural identity and its interaction with the Empire They examine the national imperial and colonial aesthetic how architecture landscape painting sculpture and literature were used appropriated and re appropriated in the furtherance of social and political agendas and how this impacted on the making of Britishness in all its complexities It is demonstrated that not only did the dominant aesthetic culture reinforce the dominant political and social ideology it also re presented and re constructed the notion of British national identity

Cultural Identity in the Early English Colonies in North America Noemi Donner, 2009-01-21 Seminar paper from the year 2008 in the subject American Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade 1.0 Technical University of Chemnitz Anglistik Amerikanistik course Hauptseminar British and American Relations since 1607 language English abstract The history of English settlement in North America starts in 1607 when disregarding Indians and some earlier attempts of settlers which were abandoned or not documented further Thus American history and civilization started with English settlers But were they still English when they arrived in the New World Were they not Americans from the early colonization on Did they not leave part of their Englishness in the mother country when they entered the ship to cross the Atlantic And did they all have the same motivations and attitudes to leave England In order to examine their culture and to highlight obvious

implementations of an evolving American cultural pattern this paper examines the settlers identities thus what they identified with and what they disclaimed It deals with the question whether one can speak of an American culture or national feeling before the American Revolution i e before the United States had become a nation It tries to conceive or grasp the sensations of the population their attitudes and feelings about their cultural and national identity America, History and Life ,2007 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada Architecture and Urban Form in Kuala Lumpur Yat Ming Loo,2016-04-08 Kuala Lumpur the capital city of Malaysia is a former colony of the British Empire which today prides itself in being a multicultural society par excellence However the Islamisation of the urban landscape which is at the core of Malaysia s decolonisation projects has marginalised the Chinese urban spaces which were once at the heart of Kuala Lumpur Engaging with complex colonial and postcolonial aspects of the city from the British colonial era in the 1880s to the modernisation period in the 1990s this book demonstrates how Kuala Lumpur s urban landscape is overwritten by a racial agenda through the promotion of Malaysian Architecture including the world famous mega projects of the Petronas Twin Towers and the new administrative capital of Putrajaya Drawing on a wide range of Chinese community archives interviews and resources the book illustrates how Kuala Lumpur s Chinese spaces have been subjugated This includes original case studies showing how the Chinese re appropriated the Kuala Lumpur old city centre of Chinatown and Chinese cemeteries as a way of contesting state s hegemonic national identity and ideology This book is arguably the first academic book to examine the relationship of Malaysia s large Chinese minority with the politics of architecture and urbanism in Kuala Lumpur It is also one of the few academic books to situate the Chinese diaspora spaces at the centre of the construction of city and nation By including the spatial contestation of those from the margins and their resistance against the state ideology this book proposes a recuperative urban and architectural history seeking to revalidate the marginalised spaces of minority community and re script them into the narrative of the postcolonial nation state
