Hoelting, K., This guidance suggests actionable ways fisheries managers can utilize the types of survey and monitoring data generally being collected in priority areas i e areas with distinctive biodiversity attributes or features to measure biodiversity outcomes and meet requirements of other effective area based conservation measures OECMs Criterion C While there is no standard for documenting outcomes of areas reported to the Convention on Biological Diversity or World Database on Protected Areas FAO recommends documenting all reported OECMs with enough information as possible The hope is that this supplemental guidance will facilitate these processes and spur greater recognition of the role that effective fisheries management has in safeguarding ecological functioning and biodiversity Encyclopedia of Biodiversity ,2013-02-05 The 7 volume Encyclopedia of Biodiversity Second Edition maintains the reputation of the highly regarded original presenting the most current information available in this globally crucial area of research and study It brings together the dimensions of biodiversity and examines both the services it provides and the measures to protect it Major themes of the work include the evolution of biodiversity systems for classifying and defining biodiversity ecological patterns and theories of biodiversity and an assessment of contemporary patterns and trends in biodiversity The science of biodiversity has become the science of our future It is an interdisciplinary field spanning areas of both physical and life sciences Our awareness of the loss of biodiversity has brought a long overdue appreciation of the magnitude of this loss and a determination to develop the tools to protect our future Second edition includes over 100 new articles and 226 updated articles covering this multidisciplinary field from evolution to habits to economics in 7 volumes The editors of this edition are all well respected instantly recognizable academics operating at the top of their respective fields in biodiversity research readers can be assured that they are reading material that has been meticulously checked and reviewed by experts Approximately 1 800 figures and 350 tables complement the text and more than 3 000 glossary entries explain key terms The Role of the Orthodox Tewahedo Church in Biodiversity Conservation: the case of some churches in Inderta, Tigray Gebrehiwot Gebreslassie Zesu,2012-11-26 Master s Thesis from the year 2012 in the subject Cultural Studies North African Studies grade Very good course Social Anthropology with Concentration on Environmental Anthropology language English abstract The Ethiopian Orthodox Tewahedo Church which is believed to be the largest of the five non Chalcedonian Eastern Churches and is believed as playing an important role in Ethiopian life is a unique church deeply based upon Ethiopian history social life and ethics In addition to its religious services i has a long tradition of conserving biodiversity Hence if a traveler sees a patch of indigenous big trees in the northern highlands of Ethiopia most probably there is an Orthodox Tewahedo Church in the center Having the main objective of investigating the role of the Orthodox Tewahedo Church in biodiversity conservation the paper deals with the religious values principles and actions of the EOTC that are in favor of biodiversity conservation In line with it tries to explore the church values in relation to biodiversity conservation in terms of the sacred and profane space wise dichotomy Moreover identify the cultural bases on what plants and animals are conserved in the Church compounds For this purpose

four churches were purposely selected from nderta wereda To encounter informants in their everyday life the researcher lived for five months in the churches especially in churches of Mika el Tsellamo and Mika el Romanat and use Participant observation Moreover the researcher used semi structured and informal interviews To this end semi structured interview was conducted with 40 purposely selected respondents Accordingly 30 respondents from Mika el Romanat and Mika el Tsellamo 15 from each and 10 respondents from Khokholo Yowhannis and Mika el Dagma churches 5 from each were interviewed Moreover in depth interview was hold with key informants from the churches Besides different secondary sources were employed The Church is playing a prominent role in conserving the biological diversity Results indicated that it is due to the sacredness of the Church area that the plants and animals are well conserved in the churches It was found that the community respect and conserve natural Church plants and animals with no discrimination regardless of their benefits to the Church and the communities In general from the results it was concluded that the sacredness of the Ethiopian Orthodox Tewahedo Church area have a prominent role for sustainable biodiversity conservation Thus the Ethiopian Orthodox Tewahedo believers are Anthropocentrists outside the church compounds and Deep ecologists within the church compound

Ibisch,2010 This new volume of the CBD Technical Series presents an analysis of the systemic character of global change biodiversity and human development and the relationships between them On Biocultural Diversity Luisa Maffi,2001 Biodiversity Country Report ,2003 Medicinal and Aromatic Plants Robert J. Bogers,Lyle E. Craker,Dagmar Lange,2007-01-31 This book presents the opinions of an international panel of specialists that explored the agricultural commercial ecological legal pharmacological and social future of medicinal and aromatic plants It represents a wide collection of views reflecting the diversity of disciplines and interests of the panel members It highlights the necessity of continued and integrated research on plant sources conservation bioactivity analysis and marketing in examining future scenarios for application and sale of medicinal and aromatic plants It shows the need for proof of efficacy and safety in drug development and the need to recognize societies contributing plant materials The development of safe and effective medicinal and aromatic plant products depends upon the collaborative efforts of growers collectors conservationists processors and businesses along with those of educators sociologists researchers and investors in developed and developing societies Progress Towards Halting the Loss of Biodiversity by 2010 European Environment Agency,2006 The continuing loss of biological diversity and its components genes species and ecosystems is an issue of global concern Research has shown that both the diversity and the identity of the various species have a fundamental influence on the magnitude and stability of the ecological processes that occur at the ecosystem level There are significant interrelationships between the degradation of ecosystems the loss of animal and plant species market globalisation and poverty Europe s high per capita consumption and waste production means that its impact on ecosystems is felt well beyond its own borders Biodiversity loss is inextricably linked to the degradation of the ecosystem services described by the 2005 Millennium Ecosystem Assessment Biodiversity Hotspots Through Time Royal Society (Great Britain). Discussion Meeting,2007 Handbook of Nature Conservation Jason B. Aronoff,2009 Nature conservation includes under its umbrella disciplines such as landscape ecology restoration ecology theoretical ecology ecological modelling ecological economics conservation biology wildlife management environmental planning policy making and environmental education This handbook presents the latest research from around the globe across a wide variety of fields Handbook of Biodiversity Valuation Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,2002-04-11 All societies depend on biodiversity and biological resources and policy makers are increasingly aware that development pressures are today generating unprecedented rates of biodiversity loss The fact that biodiversity issues often receive low priority in policy decisions is at least in part due to problems involved in assessing its contribution to society these values defy easy description and quantification What cannot be quantified or is difficult to monitor and evaluate is easy to disregard The result is that biodiversity fails to compete on a level playing field in policy decisions with the forces driving their decline This Handbook describes the types of values usually associated with biodiversity While there are exceptions to the need to prioritise economic values over other cultural traditional and spiritual values economic valuation has a sound theoretical foundation that can help clarify the tradeoffs implicit in public policy decisions On the other hand the Handbook recognises the limitations of the economic approach and considers how economic and non economic values can eventually be reconciled The Handbook also reviews the various methodological approaches often used to quantify these values Data requirements and limitations are discussed These methodologies are then applied to a series of concrete policy contexts ranging from land use planning to the determination of legal damages for environmental degradation In the Aftermath of the Earth Summit ,1993 Contents
