Abstract

The central argument of this article is that there is a remarkable conceptual parallel between Hegel’s famous notion of the “cunning of Reason” and the philosophically profound concept of Chi in Igbo metaphysics. By way of establishing this parallel, the article advances the following subsidiary but complementary points: Chi is also “cunning” in its dynamics; both principles (i.e. Chi and Reason/Spirit) are non-deterministic because they try to maintain a dialectic balance between destiny and individual responsibility; both possess divine attributes; and community serves as an invaluable medium of operation for both. The scholarly significance of the article lies in its attempt not only to systematize the Igbo thought on Chi by eliminating the vestiges of discredited “ethno-philosophy”, but also to open up a constructive dialogue between Hegel and elements of African philosophy, using Igbo metaphysics as a placeholder. This is against the backdrop of certain discontents generated by Hegel’s famous uncomplimentary and racist remarks on Africa. Seen in this light, the article may well be an exercise in “rapprochement.”

Introduction

In this article, I broach the task of constructing a substantially systematic philosophy from a scarcely explored substrate of Igbo¹ “folk philosophy”. This exercise, it is hoped, would not only help in systematizing the Igbo thought on Chi by eliminating the vestiges of discredited “ethno-philosophy” therein, but could also open up a constructive dialogue between Hegel and African philosophy, using Igbo metaphysics as an entry point. As is well known, that Hegel is quite “unpopular” if not downright infamous in African scholarship, due largely to certain uncomplimentary and racist remarks he made against Africa in his The Philosophy of History (2001a).

It is perhaps important to recall that Hegel had described Africa, inter alia, as “the land of childhood, which lying beyond the day of self-consciousness of history, is enveloped in the dark mantle of night” (Hegel 2001a, 109) and, therefore, “no historical part of the world” (ibid.,

Surrender and Catch K.H. Wolff, 2012-12-06 Suender and catch give so you can receive where the giving is your whole self in a total experience This is scarcely new on the American scene and it is ancient knowledge East and West The fears of total surrender the fears of self revelation and of total abandon although genuine are likewise not new Yet Kurt H Wolff does attempt something new here an epistemological essay with the help of this old idea his subtitle is experience and inquiry today He tries to formulate an integrated view which incorporates in the theory of total experience not only the accepted component esthetics religion the recent American experience but also a metaphysics a phenomenology a theory of perception a social philosophy and a methodology of the social sciences even a philosophy of history and psychopathology Phenomenology especially Alfred Schutz the critical Frankfurt school especially Adorno and Marcuse sociology especially Georg Simmel and existentialism especially Camus are tied in together It all looks topsy turvy at first We have here scraps of a diary fragments of correspondence a stray adolescent love letter notes on notes on field work and notes and comments on tutorial seminars plus long excerpts from students essays a stray paper in a learned journal summarizing the core of the book comments piled on comments and a web of self references literary criticisms and pieces of poetry plus a rich scholarly apparatus

Tragedy, Recognition, and the Death of God Robert R. Williams, 2012-09-27 Hegel and Nietzsche are two of the most important figures in philosophy and religion Robert R Williams challenges the view that they are mutually exclusive He identifies four areas of convergence First Hegel and Nietzsche express and define modern interest in tragedy as a philosophical topic Each seeks to correct the traditional philosophical and theological suppression of a tragic view of existence This suppression of the tragic is required by the moral vision of the world both in the tradition and in Kant's practical philosophy and its postulates For both Hegel and Nietzsche the moral vision of the world is a projection of spurious life negating values that Nietzsche calls the ascetic ideal and that Hegel identifies as the spurious infinite The moral God is the enforcer of morality Second while acknowledging a tragic dimension of existence Hegel and Nietzsche nevertheless affirm that existence is good in spite of suffering Both affirm a vision of human freedom as open to otherness and requiring recognition and community Struggle and contestation have affirmative significance for both Third while the moral God is dead this does not put an end to the God question Theology must incorporate the death of God as its own theme The union of God and death expressing divine love is for Hegel the basic speculative intuition This implies a dipolar panentheistic concept of a tragic suffering God who risks loves and reconciles Fourth Williams argues that both Hegel and Nietzsche pursue theodicy not as a justification of the moral God but rather as a question of the meaningfulness and goodness of existence despite nihilism and despite tragic conflict and suffering The inseparability of divine love and anguish means that reconciliation is no conflict free harmony but includes a paradoxical tragic dissonance reconciliation is a disquieted bliss in disaster

Beyond Humanism Saji Varghese,2014-01-01 All the major ethical theories in the Western philosophical tradition from Socrates and Plato through Aristotelian virtue ethics and Kantian deontology to utilitarianism have disagreed about two related ideas what it means to be human and what it means to relate morally to the other However all of these traditions have shared the basic assumption that the morally significant other is human family friends fellow citizens or fellow human beings This is true even when these moral relationships are established or supported by God Given this tradition any deep shift in our relationship to nature will require a new understanding of what it means for human beings to relate to the natural world and to live a moral life as part of that world The present volume a conglomerate of number of historical and Philosophical essays from Scholars of different regions of India do present varieties of perspectives on environment It is a comprehensive attempt to understand the ethical response humans ought to have towards nature The pernicious degradation on the environment results in a threat to the existence of life itself on the earth The wakeup call though late is an effort to let the world know about the need to create an awareness among the so called rationales of the moral values attached to various ingredients of the nature of which he is a part
