Culture And Space Conceiving A New Geography:

Culture and Space Joel Bonnemaïson, 2005-06-24 Culture and Space provides an engaging introduction to the ideas of Joel Bonnemaïson and to his distinctive approach to cultural geography Bonnemaïson spent thirty years in the western Pacific and it was his unique understanding of the region and its islands that forms the basis for his rich alternative approach Through an examination of key concepts such as culture and civilization and the idea of a cultural system he moves from a critical appreciation of established notions of human and cultural geography to a focus on territory as the centrepiece for his cultural geography The result is a work that explores fundamental questions about the geography of culture and the anthropology of space as the author attempts no less than a recrafting of cultural geography Natural Environment and

Culture in the Mediterranean Region Georges Cravins, Recep Efe, 2009-05-05 The largest of the world's five Mediterranean climate regions and one of the largest archipelagos in the world the Mediterranean Basin is located at the intersection of two major landmasses Eurasia and Africa which contributes to its cultural and high biodiversity Although much of the hotspot was once covered by a dense cover of forests the Basin has experienced intensive human development and impact on its ecosystems for at least 8000 years significantly longer than any other hotspot The greatest impacts have been deforestation habitat fragmentation intensive grazing and fires and infrastructure development especially on the coast which have distinctly altered the landscape The agricultural lands evergreen woodlands and maquis habitats dominating the basin are the result of these disturbances over several millennia Many of the endemic species are narrow endemics being confined to very small areas and thus are extremely vulnerable to the anthropogenic pressures Probably more species have gone extinct here than in any other hotspot At present approximately 300 million people live here and water shortages and desertification will be the serious problems in the near future Tourism is placing a significant pressure on the coastal ecosystems The construction of infrastructure and the direct impacts of people using and trampling sensitive dune ecosystems remains a key threat to coastal areas In view of the valuable natural heritage there is a great need for weighing our ecological impact in order to achieve a balance between biodiversity conservation and human development and above all how to maintain traditional rural livelihoods in a way that benefits biodiversity The changes in the atmosphere geomorphological processes and most natural cycles involving a biomass of any substantial size denote the arrival of a new geological period the Anthropocene We the humans are actively changing the overall conditions of our existence by terraforming the earth changing the overall patterns of basic life systems in the process of remaking our specific contexts not least to supposedly secure our modes of life This book is thus synthesizing knowledge from many disciplines to throw some light on the unpredictability of forthcoming changes Urban Imagination in Biblical Prophecy Mary E.

Mills, 2012-10-26 Exploration of urban imaginaries in selected parts of OT prophetic books Muslim Worldviews and Everyday Lives El-Sayed el-Aswad, 2012-07-13 el Aswad introduces the concepts of worldviews cosmologies of Muslims explaining that the different types of worldviews are not constructed solely by religious scholars or intellectual elite but are latent in Islamic tradition embedded in popular imagination and triggered through people's everyday interaction in various countries and communities. He draws from a number of sources including in-depth interviews and participant observation as well as government documents and oral history. Through the perspectives of ethno-cosmology, emic interpretation of sacred tradition, modernity, folklore, geography, dream, imagination, hybridity, and identity transformation, he examines how culturally and religiously constructed images of the world influence the daily actions of people in various Muslim communities. The worldviews of Sunnis, Shias, and Sufis are covered in turn, and Muslims in the UAE, Egypt, Bahrain, and suburban Detroit are the focus. El Aswad also discusses the effects of Western attempts at imposing its essentially secular worldview through the process of globalization and how cyberspace has promoted connectivity among Muslim communities and especially in the United States, opening up unlimited options and new possibilities.

Ethnic and Cultural Dimensions of Knowledge Peter Meusburger, Tim Freytag, Laura Suarsana, 2015-10-28. This book presents theoretical and methodical discussions on local knowledge and indigenous knowledge. It examines educational attainment of ethnic minorities, race, and politics in educational systems and the problem of losing indigenous knowledge. It comprises a broad range of case studies about specifics of local knowledge from several regions of the world, reflecting the interdependence of norms, tradition, ethnic and cultural identities, and knowledge. The contributors explore gaps between knowledge and agency, address questions of the social distribution of knowledge, consider its relation to communal activities, and inquire into the relation and intersection of knowledge assemblages at local, national, and global scales. The book highlights the relevance of local and indigenous knowledge and discusses implications for educational and developmental politics. It provides ideas and a cross-disciplinary scientific background for scholars, students, and professionals, including NGO activists and policy makers.

Seasons in the Literatures of the Medieval North P. S. Langeslag, 2015. A fresh examination of how the seasons are depicted in medieval literature.

Romantic Norths Cian Duffy, 2017-06-27. This book explores various forms of cultural influence and exchange between Britain and the Nordic countries in the late eighteenth century and romantic period. Broadly new historicist in approach but drawing also on influential descriptions of genre, discipline, mediation, cultural exchange, and comparative methodologies, these essays not only constitute a substantial and innovative contribution to scholarly understanding of the development of romanticisms and romantic nationalisms in Britain and the Nordic countries but also describe a pattern of cultural encounter which was predicated upon exchange and a sense of commonality rather than upon the perception of difference or alterity, which has so often been discerned by critical descriptions of British romantic period engagements with non-British cultures. The volume ought to appeal to a broad and genuinely international academic audience with interests in eighteenth century and romantic period culture in Britain and Scandinavia, as well as to undergraduates taking courses in eighteenth century, romantic, and Scandinavian studies.

paper from the year 2020 in the subject Literature Asia University of Freiburg English Department course On the Beach Narrating Littoral Space in Literature language English abstract This paper claims that the space of the tide country as perceived by the protagonists in The Hungry Tide is constructed through two major embedded narratives The first narrative is the legend of the goddess Bon Bibi Passed down orally from generation to generation the rhythmic legend sediments itself in the minds of the tide country people defines how they see their homeland and thus actively and repeatedly constructs and reconstructs the space of the tide country The second narrative is Nirmal s recollection of his repeated adventures to Morichjhapi Unlike the legend of Bon Bibi his adventures are transmitted in writing through his notebook Accessible to Kanai and the reader only its content shapes and constructs how both character and reader perceive and construct the space of the historical island However it also works the other way around The place of the tide country also influences the narratives that evolve around it The Bon Bibi legend is as fluid as the tide country being re interpreted from generation to generation Nirmal s notebook as well reflects the main characteristics of the tide country as it travels on water on the Megha and ultimately also disappears in water like the tide country eventually will as well In this paper a close textual analysis of both embedded narratives reveals how they manage to re construct the space of the tide country for both characters and readers i e which narrative strategies are used etc and what distinct topographical characteristics of the tide country can be found within them In sum this paper claims that narratives have the ability to construct the space s we live in Cultural geography examines how places and identities are produced It looks into how people of a certain culture and place perceive their homeland or inverse how they construct it with the help of cultural artefacts Cultural artefacts like folktales or songs can contribute to the construction of space since they describe and determine how people view and perceive the places around them Whatever cultural artefacts people produce give insight into how they see their space Narratives as cultural artefacts for example can thus show us how spaces are perceived by those who tell and consume them American Book Publishing Record ,2006

Adopting the Beat of Term: An Emotional Symphony within Culture And Space Conceiving A New Geography

In a global consumed by monitors and the ceaseless chatter of fast communication, the melodic splendor and psychological symphony produced by the prepared term often diminish in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the persistent sound and interruptions that permeate our lives. However, nestled within the pages of Culture And Space Conceiving A New Geography a stunning literary value full of natural thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by an elegant musician of language, this interesting masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological trip, well unraveling the concealed melodies and profound affect resonating within each carefully crafted phrase. Within the depths with this moving review, we can discover the book is key harmonies, analyze its enthralling writing fashion, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
