

Social Policy Masters Personal Statement:

I have developed a keen interest in social policy through recently completing an undergraduate degree in Criminology, in which I achieved a 2:1. Social policy impacts the lives of many and sets foundations for the quality of life within a society. The importance of the development of social policy to improve the welfare of our society has fuelled my interest in being able to positively influence government policies.

It would be a privilege to be a postgraduate student at the University of Bath. My choice was influenced by the university's recognised research facilities and world-leading research reputation. In addition, the beautiful settings of Bath are a place I would happily call home, having visited several times during completing my bachelor's degree in Bristol.

I have chosen to apply for the Social Policy Master of Research as I am drawn towards the independent research assignments associated with this course and have a keen interest in social policy. Many students recoil at the daunting thought of their undergraduate dissertation; however, for me, completing my dissertation was my favourite part of the course, and I am proud to have achieved 67%.

Writing my dissertation was challenging; however it has provided me with the necessary foundation for undertaking a master's degree. I enjoyed being able to produce primary data and subsequently my own analysis and recommendations on public perceptions of the police and this has led to my decision to apply for a Master of Research in Social Policy.

Writing my dissertation allowed me to strengthen the skills I had acquired throughout my degree. In addition, having achieved 77% in the Nature and Use of Research module, I was able to utilise the skills learned on SPSS to accelerate my proficiency in creating statistical and inferential tests. Furthermore, the essay-based assignments in my degree allowed me to strengthen essential transferable skills, such as analytical and critical thinking skills, written communication skills and independent research and independent study skills. I believe my academic skills and experience would make me a suitable candidate for a Master of Research in Social Policy.

Having excelled in a number of modules in my bachelor's degree and having come so close to obtaining a First overall, I have the drive and commitment to achieve a Distinction in this master's degree if given the opportunity.

During my time at the University of the West of England, I was able to successfully balance a part-time job as a customer service assistant at Asda with my university studies whilst in the midst of a pandemic. At times this was extremely challenging; however, I overcame these difficulties and as a result have further strengthened my resilience and perseverance.

Most recently, I completed the Bright Network Public Sector and Charity virtual internship, which allowed me a glimpse into the life of a civil servant. In order to complete the course I produced and submitted two work samples: a draft policy submission and a letter of correspondence. Completing this internship has further deepened my desire to pursue a career in social policy.

I hope to be given the opportunity to undertake this master's in social policy at the University of Bath to enable me to pursue my career goals. After my postgraduate study, I hope to be accepted into the civil service fast stream as a government social researcher, utilising the skills I will have acquired in both my bachelor's and master's degrees.
