Improving Palliative Care for Cancer National Research Council, Commission on Life Sciences, Institute of Medicine, National Cancer Policy Board, 2001-06-15 It is innately human to comfort and provide care to those suffering from cancer particularly those close to death Yet what seems self evident at an individual personal level has by and large not guided policy at the level of institutions in this country There is no argument that palliative care should be integrated into cancer care from diagnosis to death But significant barriers attitudinal behavioral economic educational and legal still limit access to care for a large proportion of those dying from cancer and in spite of tremendous scientific opportunities for medical progress against all the major symptoms associated with cancer and cancer death public research institutions have not responded In accepting a single minded focus on research toward cure we have inadvertently devalued the critical need to care for and support patients with advanced disease and their families This report builds on and takes forward an agenda set out by the 1997 IOM report Approaching Death Improving Care at the End of Life which came at a time when leaders in palliative care and related fields had already begun to air issues surrounding care of the dying That report identified significant gaps in knowledge about care at the end of life and the need for serious attention from biomedical social science and health services researchers Most importantly it recognized that the impediments to good care could be identified and potentially remedied The report itself catalyzed further public involvement in specific initiatives mostly pilot and demonstration projects and programs funded by the nonprofit foundation community which are now coming to fruition Improving Palliative Care National Research Council, Institute of Medicine, National Cancer Policy Board, 2003-09-08 As a society we have made amazing gains in being able to detect and treat cancer Even so about half the people who are told by their doctors that they have cancer will die within a few years This means that every year about one million people find out that they have cancer and are treated and about one half million people die of cancer nationwide So far most cancer research and treatment has focused on trying to cure cancer There hasn't been much attention paid to other important issues such as pain control and taking care of other troubling symptoms Now more and more people are aware that there are cancer care needs beyond just trying to cure it Attention is now being paid to helping people with cancer cope better with the problems that may arise when people are being treated or as they approach death

Cancer: Palliative Care Robert Dunlop, 2012-12-06 Cancer Palliative Care examines the nature of the care and support that can be provided to those in need of palliative care and their families This covers not only the physical treatment such as pain management but also the psychological well being of patients Health workers clinicians specialist nurses and medical students will find a balanced and thoughtful overview of the subject which will be of value in managing patients and helping them to come to terms with their condition

Handbook of Palliative Care in Cancer Alexander Waller, Nancy L. Caroline, 2000 Practical and comprehensive text on the management of the wide range of symptoms that plague terminal cancer patients Updates have been made to every chapter to include data from the most current studies Contains clear user friendly format that enables quick access to information Includes new chapters on principles of palliative medicine approach to common pain syndromes and bereaved Provides more information throughout the book on the care of the family Praise for the First Edition The authors have obviously had much experience in this field and have used their experience to develop an easy and logical approach to a patient with a variety of symptoms This is not a book for detailed background and historical perspectives but it offers simple and practical advice for those physicians involved in this expanding field of treating terminally ill patients It provides a simple and logical approach to most problems that arise at this time it will be difficult to pass up

Anesthesia and Analgesia Internal Medicine Issues in Palliative Cancer Care David Hui, Eduardo Bruera, 2014-03-04 Patients with advanced cancer may develop a number of clinical complications related to tumor progression or a variety of aggressive treatments The majority of these patients are elderly often with multiple co morbidities that require appropriate assessment and management In the palliative stage of their disease patients undergo a progressive transition from active acute care to community based hospice care This transition requires modification in the diagnostic tests monitoring procedures and pharmacological treatments to adjust them to the palliative and short term nature of the care Internal Medicine Issues in Palliative Cancer Care looks at internal medicine through a prognosis based framework and provides a practical approach to maximizing comfort and quality of life while minimizing aggressive investigations and therapies for patients with life limiting disease Forty six common internal medicine conditions are organized into nine clinical categories pulmonary cardiovascular nephrologic and metabolic gastrointestinal hematologic infectious endocrine rheumatologic and neuro psychiatric This evidence based resource is ideal for educating clinicians delivering palliative care to cancer patients in acute care facilities about complex internal medicine problems decision making regarding diagnostics and therapeutics which require a good understanding of state of the art internal medicine and palliative care principles

Abrahm,Bethany-Rose Daubman,Molly Collins,2022-09-20 The contributors educate health care providers on the principles and practices of pain and symptom management in cancer patients The content was expanded significantly for the fourth edition Palliative Care and Rehabilitation of Cancer Patients Charles F. von Gunten,2012-12-06 Introduction The prevailing model of medical care for patients with cancer emphasizes the curative efforts of medical technology toward the eradication of the disease Yet the suffering of the patient as a result of both the disease and our efforts to treat it is often overlooked If we are to improve the survival of patients with cancer it will be through intensive research into the molecular under pinnings of the disease and clinical trials of new therapies However it is essen tial to recognize and address the suffering of cancer patients as they are being treated It is the purpose of this book to illumina te and advance the preven tion and treatment of suffering as part of the continuum of care for patients with cancer Fundamental concepts Since the time of Hippocrates in the fifth century B c there have been two overall goals for the physician Cure of disease Relief of suffering From our vantage point in the late twentieth century looking back at previ ous centuries it is easy to observe that aside from surgery much of the medical care administered to patients with cancer was aimed at relieving the suffering associated with illness It wasn t until the concept of disease as opposed to illness was elucidated and the scientific method was applied to understand ing and eradicating cancer that significant strides were made to improve the physician s ability to cure cancer

Topics in Palliative Care Russell K. Portenoy,Eduardo Bruera,1997 Palliative Care for Chronic Cancer Patients in the Community Michael Silbermann,2020-10-30 The new global cancer data suggests that the global burden has risen to 18 1 million new cases per year and 9 6 million cancer deaths per year A number of factors appear to be driving this increase in particular a growing and aging global population and an increase of exposure to cancer risk factors linked to social and economic development For rapidly growing economies the data suggests a shift from poverty or infection related cancers to those associated with lifestyles more typical in industrialized countries There is still large geographical diversity in cancer occurrence and variations in the magnitude and profile of the disease between and within world regions There are specific types of cancer that dominate globally lung female breast and colorectal cancer and the regional variations in common cancer types signal the extent to which societal economic and lifestyle changes interplay to differentially impact on the profile of this most complex group of diseases Unfortunately despite advances in cancer care a significant proportion of patients at home experience sub optimal outcomes Barriers to successful treatment outcomes include but are not limited to access to oncologists in the primary health centers non adherence lack of experienced oncology and palliative care nurses in the community inadequate monitoring and the lack of training of family and pediatric physicians Telemedicine approaches including telephone triage education telemonitoring teleconsultation and status tracking through mobile applications have shown promise in further improving outcomes in particular for chronic cancer patients following their hospitalization Lessons can be learned from existing hospices in North America the United Kingdom Australia Centers of Excellence in African Uganda and modern community services in India Kerala An important goal of this book is to describe and encourage professionals to develop new community programs in palliative care which include training and empowering physicians and nurses in the community on the principles of palliative care The Middle East Cancer Consortium MECC together with the American Society of Clinical Oncology ASCO and the American Oncology Nursing Society ONS have conducted multiple courses ranging from basic palliative care to more specialized training in palliative care for multiple nationalities in Europe Asia and Africa Our experience clearly indicates that to promote such activities one needs strong leadership and confirmed political will to support the endeavor The new book will emphasize the importance of having a core of multiple stakeholders including community leaders government NGOs and media to be actively involved in advocating for the cause and generating public awareness This text will provide the reader with a comprehensive understanding of the outside of the hospital treatment of cancer patients by medical paramedical and volunteer personnel In doing so this text will encourage the creation of new palliative care services improving upon the existing ones and stimulate further research in this field Part 1 of the text will begin with an overview of the current state of affairs of services provided to cancer patients while being cared for by primary health centers It will also review the current literature regarding medical and psychological based therapy options in the community for cancer patients at different stages of their disease Part 2 will address the unique role of the community nurse within the framework of the multidisciplinary team treating the patient in the attempt to provide optimal evaluation and care in very challenging situations such as with terminal patients Part 3 will provide insightful models of this new discipline and serve as a valuable resource for physicians nurses social workers and others involved in the care of cancer patients The book will take a multidisciplinary approach integrating clinical and environmental data for practical management to enhance the efficacy of treatment while relieving suffering Part 4 will also discuss the application of modern technological approaches to track symptoms quality of life diet mobility duration of sleep and medication use including pain killers in chronic cancer patients in the community Part 5 of the book will also be devoted to modes of developing a collaborative program between governmental and non governmental organization sectors This includes volunteer workers in close collaboration with medical professionals for providing emotional and spiritual support nursing care nutritional support and empowering family caregivers Such a model makes palliative care in the community a people s movement thus transferring part of the responsibility and ownership to the community

Palliative Care in Oncology Bernd Alt-Epping, Friedemann Nauck, 2015-03-26 Palliative care provides comprehensive support for severely affected patients with any life limiting or life threatening diagnosis To do this effectively it requires a disease specific approach as the patients needs and clinical context will vary depending on the underlying diagnosis Experts in the field of palliative care and oncology describe in detail the needs of patients with advanced cancer in comparison to those with non cancer disease and also identify the requirements of patients with different cancer entities Basic principles of symptom control are explained with careful attention to therapy for pain associated with either the cancer or its treatment and to symptom guided antineoplastic therapy Complex therapeutic strategies for palliative cancer patients are highlighted that involve both cancer and symptom directed options and address a range of therapeutic aims Issues relating to drug use in palliative cancer care are fully explored and a separate section is devoted to care in the final phase A range of organizational and policy issues are also discussed and the book concludes by considering likely future developments in palliative care for cancer patients Palliative Care in Oncology will be of particular interest to palliative care physicians who are interested in broadening the scope of their disease specific knowledge as well as to oncologists who wish to learn more about modern palliative care concepts relevant to their day to day work with cancer patients

Cancer Palliative Care Introduction

In today's digital age, the availability of Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals for download has revolutionized the way we access information. Gone are the days of physically flipping through pages and carrying heavy textbooks or manuals. With just a few clicks, we can now access a wealth of knowledge from the comfort of our own homes or on the go. This article will explore the advantages of Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals for download, along with some popular platforms that offer these resources. One of the significant advantages of Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals for download is the cost-saving aspect. Traditional books and manuals can be costly, especially if you need to purchase several of them for educational or professional purposes. By accessing Cancer Palliative Care versions, you eliminate the need to spend money on physical copies. This not only saves you money but also reduces the environmental impact associated with book production and transportation. Furthermore, Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals for download are incredibly convenient. With just a computer or smartphone and an internet connection, you can access a vast library of resources on any subject imaginable. Whether you're a student looking for textbooks, a professional seeking industry-specific manuals, or someone interested in self-improvement, these digital resources provide an efficient and accessible means of acquiring knowledge. Moreover, PDF books and manuals offer a range of benefits compared to other digital formats. PDF files are designed to retain their formatting regardless of the device used to open them. This ensures that the content appears exactly as intended by the author, with no loss of formatting or missing graphics. Additionally, PDF files can be easily annotated, bookmarked, and searched for specific terms, making them highly practical for studying or referencing. When it comes to accessing Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals, several platforms offer an extensive collection of resources. One such platform is Project Gutenberg, a nonprofit organization that provides over 60,000 free eBooks. These books are primarily in the public domain, meaning they can be freely distributed and downloaded. Project Gutenberg offers a wide range of classic literature, making it an excellent resource for literature enthusiasts. Another popular platform for Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals is Open Library. Open Library is an initiative of the Internet Archive, a non-profit organization dedicated to digitizing cultural artifacts and making them accessible to the public. Open Library hosts millions of books, including both public domain works and contemporary titles. It also allows users to borrow digital copies of certain books for a limited period, similar to a library lending system. Additionally, many universities and educational institutions have their own digital libraries that provide free access to PDF books and manuals. These libraries often offer academic texts, research papers, and technical manuals, making them invaluable resources for students and researchers. Some notable examples include MIT OpenCourseWare, which offers free access to course materials from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the Digital Public Library of America, which provides a vast collection of digitized books and historical documents. In conclusion, Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals for download have transformed the way we access information. They provide a cost-effective and convenient means of acquiring knowledge, offering the ability to access a vast library of resources at our fingertips. With platforms like Project Gutenberg, Open Library, and various digital libraries offered by educational institutions, we have access to an ever-expanding collection of books and manuals. Whether for educational, professional, or personal purposes, these digital resources serve as valuable tools for continuous learning and self-improvement. So why not take advantage of the vast world of Cancer Palliative Care books and manuals for download and embark on your journey of knowledge?
