Captains Of Consciousness:

Captains of Consciousness Stuart Ewen, 1976      Captains of Consciousness Stuart Ewen, 1974      The Captains of Consciousness Stuart Ewen, 1974      ISpy Mark Andrejevic, 2007 A chilling account of the tradeoff we are willing to make between interactive media technologies and the power of others to watch over and control us This brave new world of electronic marketing and consumption actually lulls consumers into blissful ignorance of how that usage can be and is being monitored

Consuming Religion Vincent Jude Miller, 2004 Terrence W Tilley University of Dayton      Mothers and Such Maxine L. Margolis, 1984 Why was motherhood barely mentioned as a discrete role in eighteenth century sermons And why beginning in the 1830s did it become the focus of attention in domestic manuals and other forms of popular literature addressed to middle class women Maxine L Margolis examines these and other questions about the changing roles of middle class women Her conclusion is that we have come to think of as inevitable and biologically necessary is in great measure a consequence of our society's particularly social and economic system She cites the influence of such variables as household versus industrial production a manufacturing versus a service oriented economy the demand or lack of demand for women's labor the economy's need for high quality employees and the changing costs and benefits of rearing the middle class children who would become those employees This convincing analysis asserts that there are well defined material causes for contemporary attitudes toward women and work for new ideas about child rearing for the changing nature of housework and for the revival of feminism From publisher's description

Communication and Latin American Society Rita Atwood, Emile G. McAnany, 1986 This enlightening work represents the first comprehensive overview of the major issues in the communication scholarship in Latin America In addition to a comparison of critical communication research in Latin America the United States and Western Europe the authors delineate within a historical context the seminal ideals that guide Latin American critical communication research The book also includes contributions by Latin American communication scholars who provide examples of theoretical and methodological orientations to the field Atwood and McAnany's thorough and informative compilation will engage scholars and students of communication theory and Latin American studies

Captains of the Watch of Life and Death Mabel Osgood Wright, 1927      Redeeming Modernity Joli Jensen, 1990-06 This book examines the explicit and implicit logic operating in claims of media influence Beginning with a close analysis of arguments by four critical voices Dwight Macdonald Daniel Boorstin Stuart Ewen and Neil Postman on the nature of media influence the author demonstrates how they mobilize three dominant metaphors media as information media as art and media as education She then examines the historical and intellectual roots of these concepts in American social and cultural thought and explores media as a new technology as a means for more positive expectations of media influence The book closes with a section considering how debates on postmodernism redirect but do not resolve the basic contradictions in social and culture

Signs of Literature Kenneth James Hughes, 1986 This language primer begins with a suitably esoteric looking

chapter called The Language of Time It isn't until the second paragraph that the unsuspecting reader realizes Hughes is talking about the language of Time magazine which he analyzes as a piece of fiction Indeed for Hughes there is no such thing as a substantive distinction between fiction and non fiction there are only texts that do things with structural techniques of syntax and signs Some of these texts we have commonly agreed to believe are fiction others we have commonly agreed to believe are fact None of these texts however has anything to do with truth much less Truth with a capital T In an amazing brief and headlong rush through the history of language from classical Greece to the 20th century Hughes demonstrates convincingly that neither the empirical world nor the metaphysical world has ever informed language Rather it is always language which informs the world Hughes's careful analysis of the techniques of the English language from Anglo Saxon verse to the latest post modern text constantly reminds us that language is always a made thing and that the empirical objects captured by language are never immediate but always mediated by the perception and the craft of the speaker or the author This book is a must for every serious student of language and literature because it introduces the reader so effortlessly to the latest vocabulary and techniques of structuralist criticism it is a basic tool for anyone wishing to communicate his or her ideas to anyone else and in any discipline The surprise of the book for the lay reader is that it is so richly entertaining Its constant demystification of the technique of communication we most take for granted common speech offers the reader surprise and delight from the first page to the last The Cult of Thinness Sharlene Nagy

Hesse-Biber,2007 In this powerful book Sharlene Nagy Hesse Biber goes beyond traditional psychological explanations of eating disorders to level a powerful indictment against the social political and economic pressures women face in a weight obsessed society ethnicity gay and lesbian body image and the globalization of body image issues align a refined cultural study of body image with the trends found in current research studies demographic data and popular culture The Captain's Room, Etc Walter Besant,1887 Contemporary Authors CONTEMPORARY.,1981 The Modern Worlds of Business and Industry Martin Campbell-Kelly,1998 This volume represents a selection of papers focusing in particular on modern business forms and their relationship to social and political institutions in the twentieth century and on eighteenth century France Its clear geographical focus is on the United States and Western Europe but three of the essays cover the Middle East Nigeria and India Critical Psychology and Pedagogy Edmund V.
