Quality in Higher Education as a Tool for Human Development Patience Mukwambo, 2019-04-11 Whilst many studies have explored how quality in higher education is conceptualised in the Global North less attention has been paid to quality in higher education in Africa and the Global South This book uses the human development and capabilities approach to demonstrate how quality in teaching and learning contributes to a range of benefits such as improved wellbeing economic outcomes political engagement and human capital formation amongst graduates The book interrogates the various dimensions of quality as well as factors that impact on the realisation of quality in universities and society at large Recognising that measures of quality are context and stakeholder specific the book uses the Zimbabwean context as a Global South case study It evaluates how quality is conceptualised and operationalised in Zimbabwean universities and how that impacts on teaching and learning policy and practice The book also demonstrates the need for economic resources for individuals and universities and emphasises the importance of a social and educational environment conducive to critical learning and post university opportunities This book will be of interest to researchers across Education African and Development Studies as well as to policymakers and practitioners with an interest in quality assurance and the promotion of teaching and learning in universities in the Global South

Quality in Higher Education Ming Cheng, 2016-09-27 Many countries now employ national evaluation systems to demonstrate publicly that universities provide a quality education However the current processes of quality evaluation are often detached from the practices of teaching and learning In particular those who teach and those who learn still have to be won over to such audit processes This book argues that it is time for the higher education sector to concern itself with the human dimension so as to develop both academic professionalism and students commitment to their learning Based on five completed research projects which explore academics and students experiences and their views of quality evaluation the book argues that developing the intrinsic values of teaching and learning held by academics and students is key to achieving high quality education In this book the author critically reviews the four most frequently used terms related to current quality evaluation fitness for purpose value for money student satisfaction and students as customers and argues for a motivationally intelligent quality approach emphasising the moral dimension and the intrinsic values of academics and students The author also outlines an

Quality in Learning John Stephenson, 1992 Assessment, Learning and Employability Peter Knight, Mantz Yorke, 2003 What is assessed gets attention what is not assessed does not When higher education is expected to promote complex achievements in subject disciplines and in terms of employability problems arise how are such achievements to be assessed In the first part Knight and Yorke argue that existing grading practices cannot cope with the expectations laid upon them while the potential of formative assessment for the support of learning is not fully realised Improving the effectiveness of assessment depends they claim on a well grounded appreciation of what assessment is and what may and may not be expected of it The second part is about summative judgements for high stakes purposes Using established measurement theory a view is developed of the conditions under which affordable useful valid and reliable summative judgements can be made A conclusion is that many complex achievements resist high stakes assessment which directs attention to low stakes essentially formative alternatives Assessment for learning and employability demands more than module level changes to assessment methods The final part discusses how institutions need to respond in policy terms to the challenges that have been posed This book has wide and practical relevance to teachers module and programme leaders higher education managers and quality enhancement specialists Departmental Leadership in Higher Education Peter Knight, Paul Trowler, 2001 The book offers a way of looking at the practice of leading rather than presenting a selection of tips or tools for leadership but is studded with views from departmental leaders and extensive practical advice Jacket Journal of Higher Education , 1997 Quality and Access in Higher Education Society for Research into Higher Education, 1991 The basic differences between the British and American systems of higher education are linked with other differences namely in
