Women's Experiences of Planning Home Births in Scotland Nadine Pilley Edwards, University of Sheffield, 2001 Choice, Control and Contemporary Childbirth Julie Jomeen, 2010 Explores the narrative childbirth experiences of a group of women illustrating how maternity choices are simultaneously promised and constrained.

Supporting Women for Labour and Birth Nicky Leap, Billie Hunter, 2022-01-12 This new edition provides an up to date and thoughtful guide to supporting women in labour looking at a range of techniques and approaches that promote a safe and positive experience of birth for women and their families. Across the world support in labour has been shown to reduce obstetric interventions and improve outcomes for women and babies. Written by two highly experienced midwifery authors, this text draws on a wide range of cutting edge research on this topic identifying how the evidence can be applied to everyday practice. Narratives from women and practitioners including midwives, doulas, childbirth educators and students are used to illustrate a range of situations where the quality of support is central to the quality of the experience and outcome. Supporting Women for Labour and Birth encourages readers to reflect on their experiences and examine the evidence provided by both research and experiences of women and practitioners in order to explore how this could be incorporated into their practice. The only book to deal directly with the practical and emotional issues associated with labour support, this is an ideal text for student midwives and an important reference for practising midwives, doulas and other childbirth practitioners.

E-Book Risk and Choice in Maternity Care Andrew Symon, 2006-11-16 This title is directed primarily towards health care professionals outside of the United States. This book explores the complex interrelationship between risk and choice in maternity care taking a close look at how high and low risk are defined and what impact this has on a woman's ability to exercise informed choices throughout pregnancy. It offers an international collaboration that highlights different perspectives on debated issues with chapters on maternity care in the UK, United States, Australia, and Ireland contributed by midwives, obstetricians, risk management experts, and sociologists. The aim of this book is to illustrate the changing reality of risk management as it relates to maternity care and to highlight risk management concerns that may limit the choices available to pregnant women. Clarifies how applications of risk affect the choices pregnant women are able to exercise. Locates pregnancy risk considerations within the overall scheme of risk management. Analyzes practitioners' responses to the requirements of risk management. Presents risk management and choice from the risk manager's perspective providing an understanding of risk as a macro concept in health care. Highlights medico-legal opinions on exercising choice underscoring the need for accurate information and the ability to make informed decisions. Two chapters examine women's perspectives on risk labeling and the impact this has on choice, one in which the concept of safety within maternity care is discussed and one in which the views of women with defined risk factors are explored and their ability to make choices is evaluated. Two chapters written by health service risk managers discuss the differences between an inner city approach and a rural approach to the debate surrounding risk and choice. Discusses midwifery's focus on normality in childbirth and considers how this viewpoint affects the risk dialogue including a chapter on clinical trends in maternity care. An obstetric perspective on risk refutes criticisms of obstetricians as being more likely to impose risk labels and limit choices by discussing how risks and choices are presented and considered within obstetric care. Explores the debate surrounding a woman's right to have a home birth in Ireland in light of its risk management climate. Two chapters discuss the collaboration between service users, midwives, and obstetricians in Australia regarding the organization and delivery of maternity care as well as the views concerning risk among indigenous Australians. Perspectives from nurse-midwives in the U.S. discuss the complex relationships among nurse-midwives, obstetricians, and pregnant women with regard to choice including views on risk within immigrant communities.

Demystifying Qualitative Research in Pregnancy and Childbirth Grace Edwards, Zarko Alfirevic, 2004. This book guides readers through qualitative research. The text is timely and informs clinicians and researchers about the rationale for and tools of qualitative research methods. It will help to break down barriers where they exist between obstetricians and midwives on concepts of what makes for good research in maternity care. The information in this book guides readers through all stages of the research process. The journey through the chapters will enlighten them to the purpose of qualitative research, inform them of considerations before they commence any research, outline the theoretical underpinning of the approach, highlight important ethical issues, discuss different methods of data collection, explore the process of analysis, suggest ways of assessing qualitative research, demonstrate how to integrate qualitative and quantitative research, and provide examples of how to explore

Turkel,1995-11-06 Based on her 12 year study of a free standing birth center Turkel analyzes the medical model of childbirth in contrast to the midwifery model In the medical model of birth women are defined as patients and birth takes place in hospitals where women have little if any control over their experience The midwifery model views birth as a healthy process where midwives act as teachers and guides for women during pregnancy and birth helping women and their families to shape and define their experience to meet their needs and expectations Under existing legal and cultural circumstances free standing birth centers face a dilemma They must continually accomodate the medical model while trying to maintain the midwifery model and give women an option to home birth or to hospital birth New Books on Women and Feminism ,2005 American Book Publishing Record ,2005 British National Bibliography for Report Literature ,2003 Feminist Collections ,2014 Homebirth
