William Richard Wood Stephens

Bishops Waltham A History:

Bishop's Waltham Barbara Biddell, 2002 Already old by 904 it had become one of the manors of the bishops of Winchester After the Conquest Bishop Henri de Blois built his palace and developed the town on a grid pattern that is still apparent In 1644 Parliamentary forces captured and plundered the palace The character of Bishop s Waltham changed Without the bishops the people had to rely on themselves The 18th century brought the excitement of the Waltham Blacks a notorious gang of deer stealers the early 19th century brought famous French and Spanish prisoners on parole A very thoroughly researched account by an award winning local historian

The History of the Town, Church, and Episcopal Palace of Bishop's Waltham, a Lecture Charles Walters, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1844 edition Excerpt was continually devising proper means of disposing of them for the good of the public not delaying it till the time of his death when he could keep them no longer nor leaving to the care of others what he could better execute himself but forming his designs early and as soon as he had ability putting them into execution that he might have the satisfaction of seeing the beneficial effects of them and that by constant observation and due experience he might from time to time improve and perfect them so as to render them still more beneficial Having almost finished his college at Winchester Wykeham undertook to repair or rather remodel at his own expense the nave of the Cathedral This great work was begun in 1394 and it was carrying on at the time of his death for he bequeaths 2500 marks for what remained to be done and 500 marks for the stained glass windows It is a stately and magnificent memorial of his great architectural taste and skill as well as of his boundless liberality By operations of a very bold and daring nature requiring consummate masonic and mechanical ability the ponderous architecture of Walkelyn has been converted into Gothic of the purest and most correct design and it is not perhaps too much to say that York alone excepted the nave of Winchester is the grandest and most impressive in the kingdom In the midst of it he caused his resting place to be prepared the beautiful chantry which contains his tomb Its situation was determined by the circumstance of there having been on the spot an altar dedicated to the Virgin Mary where when a boy he was in the daily practice of attending the mass there celebrated by a monk named Pekis for early piety was one of the admirable features in the
