Bitterbrush Country Diane Josephy Peavey, 2001      The Landscape of Home Jeff Lee, John Calderazzo, Sue Ellen Campbell, David Waag, 2006 An anthology of some of the most evocative writing focusing on our vast natural heritage along with pieces that address pressing land issues facing the West This collection not only paints a vivid portrait of life in the Rocky Mountains it also presents some of the finest nonfiction writing to be found in America today This is a perfect selection that is bound to sink reader's roots deeper in the landscape of home      Working the Land Sandra K. Schackel, 2011-05-25 Helen Tiegs didn't take to driving a tractor when she became a farmer's wife but after fifty years she considers herself the hub of the family operation Lila Hill taught piano then ultimately took a job off the farm to augment the family income during a period of rising costs From Montana's cattle pastures to New Mexico's sagebrush mesas women on today's ranches and farms have played a crucial role in a way of life that is slowly disappearing from the western landscape Recalling her own family farm ties Sandra Schackel set out to learn how these women's lives have changed over the second half of the twentieth century In Working the Land she collects oral histories from more than forty women in Arizona Colorado Idaho New Mexico Oregon and Texas recalling their experiences as ranchers and farmers in a modernizing West Through this diverse group of women white and Hispanic rich and poor ranging in age from 24 to 83 we gain a new perspective on their ties to the land Although western ranch and farm women have often been portrayed as secondary figures who devoted themselves to housekeeping in support of their husbands' labors Schackel's interviews reveal that these women have had a much more active role in defining what we know as the modern American West As Schackel listened to their stories she found several currents running through their recollections such as the satisfaction found in living the rural lifestyle and the flexibility of gender roles She also learned how resourceful women developed new ways to make their farms work by including tourism summer camps and bed and breakfast operations and how many have become activists for land based issues And while some like Lila made the difficult decision to work off the farm such sacrifices have enabled families to hold onto their beloved land Rich with memory and insight into what makes America's family farms and ranches tick Working the Land provides a deeper understanding of the West's development over the last fifty years along with new perspectives on shifting attitudes toward women in the workforce It is both a long overdue documentation of the lives of hard working farm women and a celebration of their contributions to a truly American way of life      An Accidental Cowboy Jameson Parker, 2003-10 A stunning and breathtaking memoir that pays homage to a dying way of life An Accidental Cowboy is a story of trauma depression and the beginnings of hope set against the backdrop of the American Southwest      Native American Forage Plants Arthur William Sampson, 1924      Women Writers of the West Julie Dannenberg, Julie Danneberg, 2020-10-26 Told in a unique first person creative nonfiction narrative Women Writers of the West profiles five women driven to write and succeed at a time when ambition in women was viewed as a flaw not an asset Helen Hunt Jackson Jessie Benton Fremont Louise Clappe
