Ashmolean Museum Oxford UK 20 10 2016 26 02 2017 Chinese Art and Its Encounter with the World David Clarke, 2011-08-01 Chinese Art and Its Encounter with the World examines Chinese art from the mid eighteenth century to the present beginning with discussion of a Chinese portrait modeler from Canton who traveled to London in 1769 and ending with an analysis of art and visual culture in post colonial Hong Kong By means of a series of six closely focused case studies often deliberately introducing non canonical or previously marginalized aspects of Chinese visual culture it analyzes Chinese art's encounter with the broader world and in particular with the West Offering more than a simple charting of influences it uncovers a pattern of richly mutual interchange between Chinese art and its others Arguing that we cannot fully understand modern Chinese art without taking this expanded global context into account it attempts to break down barriers between areas of art history which have hitherto largely been treated within separate and often nationally conceived frames Aware that issues of cultural difference need to be addressed by art historians as much as by artists it represents a pioneering attempt to produce art historical writing which is truly global in approach David Clarke is Professor in the Department of Fine Arts University of Hong Kong

Collecting the Revolution Emily R. Williams, 2022-03-08 In the late 1960s student protests broke out throughout much of the world and while Britain's anti Vietnam protestors and China's Red Guards were clearly radically different these movements at times shared inspirations aspirations and aesthetics Within Western popular media Mao's China was portrayed as a danger to world peace but at the same time for some on the counter cultural left the Cultural Revolution 1966 1976 contained ideas worthy of exploration Moreover because of Britain's continued colonial possession of Hong Kong Britain had a specific interest in ongoing events in China and information was highly sought after Thus the objects that China exported propaganda posters paintings Mao badges periodicals ceramics etc became a crucial avenue through which China was known at this time and interest in them crossed the political divide Collecting the Revolution uses the objects that the Chinese government sent abroad and that visitors brought back with them to open up the stories of diplomats journalists activists students and others and how they imagined engaged with and later remembered Mao's China through its objects It chronicles the story of how these objects were later incorporated into the collections of some of Britain's most prominent museums thus allowing later generations to continue to engage with one of the most controversial and important periods of China's recent history
