Choice Of Cousins:

Catalogue of Engravings the Property of an Amateur Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge,1878 Dixieball Thomas Aiello,2019-02-01 In Dixieball Thomas Aiello considers the cultural function of professional basketball in the Deep South between 1947 and 1979 Making a strong case for the role of race in this process Aiello ties the South s initial animus toward basketball to the same complex that motivated the region to sacrifice its own economic interests to the cause of white supremacy Fans of basketball as compared to other team sports were closer to the players who showed more of their bodies blackness then had more visibility in basketball than it had in other sports By the time Lyndon Johnson signed the Voting Rights Act in 1965 African Americans made up 47.5 percent of professional basketball players and despite integrating later than baseball and football it was fast becoming known as a black sport Over time survival for southern teams grew more tenuous fan support more fickle and racial incidents between players and fans more hostile Racism clashed with civic development in a fast evolving region To identify the sources of this clash Dixieball locates the main points of intersection between professional basketball and the Deep South in the two decades prior to the region s first major franchise Aiello then takes readers to New Orleans where the first major Deep South professional basketball team the New Orleans Buccaneers was born and on to Atlanta Birmingham St Louis and others leading up to 1979 Scholars of sport and Southern history alike will find Dixieball a compelling contribution to the lively interdisciplinary discussions animating the Sport and Popular Culture series Cousin Marriages Alison Shaw,Aviad E. Raz,2015-01-01 Juxtaposing contributions from geneticists and anthropologists this volume provides a contemporary overview of cousin marriage and what is happening at the interface of public policy the management of genetic risk and changing cultural practices in the Middle East and in multi ethnic Europe It offers a cross cultural exploration of practices of cousin marriage in the light of new genetic understanding of consanguineous marriage and its possible health risks Overall the volume presents a reflective interdisciplinary analysis of the social and ethical issues raised by both the discourse of risk in cousin marriage as well as existing and potential interventions to promote healthy consanguinity via new genetic technologies The Mothers Robert Briffault,1927

Mercantile Library Association,Mercantile Library Association of the City of New-York,1876 Highland Cousins William Black,1894 Religion and Gender-Based Violence Brenda Bartelink,Chia Longman,Tamsin Bradley,2022-09-15 This book takes religion as an entry point for a deeper exploration into why practices of gender based violence continue and what possible actions might help to contribute to their eradication International donors are committed to reducing and ending gender related harm particularly violence against women but clear answers as to why harmful practices persist are often slow to emerge Theological research struggles to find strong links yet religion is often referred to by local people as the reason for practices such as female cutting male circumcision early and forced marriage nutritional taboos and birth practices mandatory un veiling harmful spiritual practices polygamy

gender unequal marital and inheritance rights and so called honour crimes This book presents empirical cases of religious non religious and secular actors including local and international governmental and non governmental agencies in the fields of development health and equality policies Tracing their different understandings of how religion is entangled with gender based violence both contextually as well as historically the book sheds light on helpful and unhelpful as well as erroneous and harmful understandings of such practices in local and global perspectives Centralising the perspectives of women themselves this book will be an important read for development practitioners and policy makers as well as for researchers across religious studies gender studies and global development
