Dynamics Of Large Mammal Populations:

Dynamics of Large Mammal Populations Tim Denis Smith,1981 Collection of 23 original papers on the population dynamics of large mammals including ones on fur seals harp seals bears whales etc The chapters facilitate comparison of the population dynamics of various groups including herbivores carnivores ungulates cetaceans and pinnipeds

Dynamics of Large Herbivore Populations in Changing Environments Norman Owen-Smith,2010-02-22 This book aims to reconcile theoretical models of population dynamics with what is currently known about the population dynamics of large mammalian herbivores It arose from a working group established at the National Center for Ecological Analysis and Synthesis at the University of California Santa Barbara to address the need for models that better accommodate environmental variability especially for herbivores dependent on changing vegetation resources The initial chapter reviews findings from definitive long term studies of certain other ungulate populations many based on individually identifiable animals Other chapters cover climatic influences emphasising temperate versus tropical contrasts and demographic processes underlying population dynamics more generally There are new assessments of irruptive population dynamics and of the consequences of landscape heterogeneity for herbivore populations An initial review of candidate population models is followed up by a final chapter outlining how these models might be modified to better accommodate environmental variability The contents provide a foundation for resolving problems of diminishing large mammal populations in Africa over abundant ungulate populations elsewhere and general consequences of global change for biodiversity conservation This book will serve as a definitive outline of what is currently known about the population dynamics of large herbivores
