Dynamics Of Muslim Society:

Dynamics of Muslim Society Sekh Rahim Mondal, 1994 Muslims according to the 1981 Census constitute 11.35 per cent of India's population and are thus the largest minority group in the country. They are also a tradition-bound and backward community. In India, the social and cultural life of the Muslims displays a distinctive character as it is influenced by both the Islamic as well as the local traditions. A masterly exposition of society and culture of the Muslims of Bengal in particular and India in general, this volume is based on an intensive empirical study of the social organizations among the Muslims of three villages in three different eco-cultural zones of West Bengal. It presents an analysis of structure and organization of Muslim society in Bengal on the basis of groupings, inter-relations and interactions among various units of Muslim society in different field situations. The volume also analyses the interaction of the great tradition of Islam with the little tradition of the region in the framework of the Muslim society. Concerned not only with the nature of segmentation and stratification in Bengal Muslim society, it also examines in detail the aspects of overall solidarity of various Muslim groups as a specific community.

Beyond the Veil, Revised Edition Fatima Mernissi, 1987-04-22. From the writing of her first book Beyond the Veil: Male-Female Dynamics in Modern Muslim Society in 1975, Mernissi has sought to reclaim the ideological discourse on women and sexuality from the stranglehold of patriarchy. She critically examines the classical corpus of religious juristic texts, including the Hadith, and reinterprets them from a feminist perspective. In her view, the Muslim ideal of the silent, passive, obedient woman has nothing to do with the authentic message of Islam. Rather, it is a construction of the ulama, the male jurists, theologians, who manipulated and distorted the religious texts in order to preserve the patriarchal system. Mernissi's work explores the relationship between sexual ideology, gender identity, sociopolitical organization, and the status of women in Islam. Her special focus, however, is Moroccan society and culture. As a feminist, her work represents an attempt to undermine the ideological and political systems that silence and oppress Muslim women.

Beyond the Veil: Male-Female Dynamics in a Modern Muslim Society Fatima Mernissi, 1985

Beyond the Veil Fatema Mernissi, 2011-09-30. Does Islam as a religion oppress women? Is Islam against democracy? In this classic study, internationally renowned sociologist Fatema Mernissi argues that women's oppression is not due to Islam because this religion celebrates women's power. Women's oppression, she maintains, is due to political manipulation of religion by power-seeking archaic Muslim male elites. Mernissi explains that early Muslim scholars portrayed women as aggressive hunters who forced men, reduced to weak, hunted victims, to control women by imposing institutions such as veiling, which confined women to the private space. In her new introduction, she argues that women's aggressive invasion of the 500-plus Arab satellite channels in the twenty-first century, including as commanding show anchors, film and video stars, supports her theory that Islam, as a religion, celebrates female power.

Muslim Laws, Politics and Society in Modern Nation States Ihsan Yilmaz, 2016-12-05. Drawing on theories of legal pluralism, this book tests whether and to what extent claims of the modern nation-state laws to exclusive dominance over other spheres are tenable and reassesses the operation of law in society Incorporating a combination of legal theory post modern critique and socio legal analysis of three current jurisdictions in which Muslims play an important role the volume identifies Muslims current socio legal situation and attitudes from different perspectives and reconciles them with modern legal systems in three key countries It analyzes the conflict between the assumptions of modern legal systems and plural legal realities and also examines attempts by modern legal systems to impose official laws in the face of resistance from unofficial Muslim laws and discusses possible responses to the challenge of dynamic Muslim legal pluralism A valuable resource for students researchers and academics with an interest in the areas of Islamic law and politics and the interplay between secular law and religious cultural traditions
