E Mails From Scheherazad:

E-mails from Scheherazad Mohja Kahf, 2003 Explores what it is like to be a woman a person of color an immigrant and a headscarf wearing Muslim in a non Muslim country A Study of Intertextuality in Mohja Kahf's "E-Mails from Scheherazad" Hamida Riahi, 2025-09-04 This book examines Mohja Kahf's use of parody and allusion in E mails from Scheherazad to deconstruct Orientalist views of Muslim women By revisiting historical Islamic figures and rewriting Western literary forms and narratives Kahf challenges the stereotype of the oppressed Muslim female and reclaims a multifaceted identity Contemporary Arab American Women Writers: Hyphenated Identities and Border Crossings ,

Gender: Leaders and Mothers in Muslimah-American Literature Hasnul Insani Djohar, Mira Utami, In these pages readers will find a tapestry of themes that challenge conventional narratives surrounding Muslimah identity The text delves into how literature serves as both a mirror and a canvas reflecting societal realities while also imagining transformative possibilities By centering the voices of Muslimah writers this work highlights the dynamic interplay of tradition and modernity the personal and the political and the sacred and the secular Each chapter invites us to consider how literature can act as a powerful medium for self expression resistance and empowerment What sets this book apart is its commitment to exploring the dual roles of leadership and motherhood roles often viewed in tension but here presented as complementary facets of identity The narratives discussed challenge stereotypes and offer alternative portrayals of Muslim women as decision makers nurturers and changemakers Whether through poetry prose or memoir these stories resonate with universal themes of love sacrifice and ambition making them both deeply personal and broadly relatable Arab-American Women's Writing and Performance Somaya Sami Sabry, 2011-04-30 The public image of Arabs in America has been radically affected by the war on terror But stereotypes of Arabs manifested for instance in Orientalist representations of Sheherazade and the Arabian Nights in Hollywood have prevailed for much longer Here Somaya Sabry argues that the Arab American experience has been powerfully shaped by racial discourse and Orientalism and is further complicated today by hostility towards Arabs in post 9 11 America She shows how Arab American women writers and performers confront and subvert racial stereotypes in this charged context by recasting representations of Sheherazade Shedding new light on Arab American women's negotiations of identity this book will be indispensable for all those interested in the Arab American world American ethnic studies and race as well as diaspora studies women's studies literature cultural studies and performance studies Arab American Women Michael W. Suleiman, Suad Joseph, Louise Cainkar, 2021-12-01 Arab American women have played an essential role in shaping their homes their communities and their country for centuries Their contributions often marginalized academically and culturally are receiving long overdue attention with the emerging interdisciplinary field of Arab American women's studies The collected essays in this volume capture the history and significance of Arab American women addressing issues of migration transformation and reformation as these women invented occupations politics philosophies scholarship literature arts and ultimately themselves Arab American women brought culture and absorbed culture they brought relationships and created relationships they brought skills and talents and developed skills and talents They resisted inequities refused compliance and challenged representation They engaged in politics civil society the arts education the market and business And they told their own stories These histories these genealogies these narrations that are so much a part of the American experiment are chronicled in this volume providing an indispensable resource for scholars and activists Between Banat Mejdulene Bernard Shomali,2023-01-06 In Between Banat Mejdulene Bernard Shomali examines homoeroticism and nonnormative sexualities between Arab women in transnational Arab literature art and film Moving from The Thousand and One Nights and the Golden Era of Egyptian cinema to contemporary novels autobiographical writing and prints and graphic novels that imagine queer Arab futures Shomali uses what she calls queer Arab critique to locate queer desire amid heteronormative imperatives Showing how systems of heteropatriarchy and Arab nationalisms foreclose queer Arab women's futures she draws on the transliterated term banat the Arabic word for girls to refer to women femmes and nonbinary people who disrupt stereotypical and Orientalist representations of the Arab woman By attending to Arab women's narration of desire and identity queer Arab critique substantiates queer Arab histories while challenging Orientalist and Arab national paradigms that erase queer subjects In this way Shomali frames queerness and Arabness as relational and transnational subject formations and contends that prioritizing transnational collectivity over politics of authenticity respectability and inclusion can help lead toward queer freedom

Troubling Topics, Sacred Texts Roberta Sterman Sabbath,2021-10-04 Abrahamic scriptures serve as cultural pharmakon prescribing what can act as both poison and remedy This collection shows that their sometimes veiled but eternally powerful polemics can both destroy and build exclude and include and serve as the ultimate justification for cruelty or compassion Here scholars not only excavate these works for their formative and continuing cultural impact on communities identities and belief systems they select some of the most troubling topics that global communities continue to navigate Their analysis of both texts and their reception help explain how these texts promote norms and build collective identities Rejecting the notion of the sacred realm as separate from the mundane realm and beyond critical challenge this collection argues both implicitly and sometimes transparently for the presence of the sacred within everyday life and open to challenge The very rituals prayers and traditions that are deemed sacred interweave into our cultural systems in infinite ways Together these authors explore the dynamic nature of everyday life and the often brutal power of these texts over everyday meaning Aljadid ,2005

The Language of Queens: Liminal Spaces and Hybrid Identities in Mohja Kahf's "E-mails From Scheherazad" Carminia Janel Chan,2017 Arab and Arab American female writers have more recently paved the field of study on issues concerning the various representations of Feminism in the Middle East and the U S For this study I argue that the works of Arab Arab American feminist writers like Mohja Kahf continue to influence the insight into the complex formation of dual multidimensional and spatial identities of Arab Arab

American and Muslim women in a post colonial and post 9 11 era This project examines how Mohja Kahf s E Mails from Scheherazad and her unique approach through the epistolary framework and her adaptation of The Arabian Nights address the political social and ethical understanding of the lived experiences and challenges of the individuals her stories portray Kahf s poems entice and engage the reader in the process of co creation and critical inquiry through her deployment of narrative seduction inherited in the tradition of her Feminist foremother Scheherazad Kahf s collection of poems I argue is a dialectical text that marries past and present traditions and where various voices experiences and reflections intimately meet engaging in a dance of mutual understanding and coexistence against systemic forms of imperialism orientalism and patriarchy Ethnic Studies Review ,1996 Poetry Harriet Monroe,2004 Banipal ,2008 Islamic Horizons ,2003 America and the Orient Heike Schäfer,2006 In the aftermath of 9 11 fearful images of the Orient as a volatile blend of religious extremism and anti western politics have flourished in the United States and Europe Yet Orient and Occident are interrelated cultural formations This interdisciplinary volume explores the rich history of cultural and political exchange between Arab South Asian and American cultures from the 18th century to the present Nineteen original essays which were first presented at the 51st conference of the German Association for American Studies address the emergence of Arab American literature intercultural encounters in the works of Arab Arab American and South Asian American writers and artists and the Orient as a geographical region as well as a foil for American self definitions in U S literature opera and film Revisiting the work of Edward Said and Samuel Huntington the collection examines how we develop our knowledge and fantasies about the Orient MultiCultural Review ,2003 Dinarzad's Children Pauline Kaldas,Khaled Mattawa,2004 In The Thousand and One Nights it is Shahrazad s sister Dinarzad who each night asks for a story This collection of twenty four modern tales by eighteen authors offers up a mix of previously published and new works creating a literary road map to Arab American literature today Here authors of Lebanese Palestinian Syrian Egyptian and Libyan descent some with established reputations others new young writers tell tales about Muslims and Christians recent immigrants and fully assimilated Americans teenagers and grandmothers guerillas and peaceniks professors housewives grocers bookies those who long for their homeland and those who refuse to speak Arabic A number of the stories center on conflicts between immigrants and their American born children Others wrestle openly with topics such as in group stereotyping domestic violence familial discord and other difficult issues But what sets this literature apart from other ethnic literatures is its tendency to keep an eye on the overseas political situation By turns sassy or lyrical biting or humorous always moving the stories in this collection are good reading and an important contribution to the body of ethnic American literature Calyx ,2003 Library Journal ,2003 Poets & Writers ,2004
