E.M. Forster Norman Page, 1988-01-22 The five novels E M Forster published during his lifetime enjoyed a popularity and critical acclaim out of all proportion to this modest fictional output or the books apparent pretensions certainly since the publication of Howards End in 1910 he has been regarded almost without question as one of the foremost novelists of the century Since his death in 1970 there has been no slackening of interest the appearance of a comprehensive biography an edition of his letters a major critical edition of his works and other scholarly and critical aids has given fresh impetus to the reassessment of his achievement The present study provides a short account of Forster's life and career followed by detailed discussion of his major writings A final chapter considers his posthumous novel Maurice and the short stories Although his most significant work belongs to the first quarter of the twentieth century Forster's alliance of wit and seriousness satiric comedy and moral insight gives it a perennial freshness for new generations of students and readers Literature and Inequality Daniel Shaviro, 2020-03-31 The consequences of high end inequality seep into almost every aspect of human life it is not just a question for economists In this highly accessible new work Professor Shaviro takes an interdisciplinary approach to explore how great works of literature have provided some of the most incisive accounts of inequality and its social and cultural ramifications over the last two centuries Through perceptive close readings of Jane Austen Charles Dickens and Edith Wharton among others he not only demonstrates how these accounts are still relevant today but how they can illuminate our understanding of our current situation and broaden our own perspective beyond the merely economic A Passage to India Edward Morgan Forster, British Sources of Information P. Series Clare D. Kinsman, 1975 The Permanent Series will consist of biographical sketches which formerly appeared in regular volumes of Contemporary Authors because the subject of the sketch is now deceased or has not reported a recently published book in progress Apprenticeships T. Jeffers, 2005-05-05 Novels about growing up have long been loved by ordinary readers and analyzed sometimes with more heat than light by scholars This book respects the interests of ordinary readers while clarifying and frequently resolving the moral psychological social and occasionally religious coming of age dilemmas that scholars have wrestled with Focusing on Goethe's Wilhelm Meister Dickens's David Copperfield James's What Maisie Knew Forster's The Longest Journey Lawrence's Sons and Lovers and Santayana's The Last Puritan Jeffers writes in a fresh engaging style meant to give criticism a liveliness and even brilliance it has in recent decades often lacked

Howards End Malcolm Page, 1993 In the first part of the book Page surveys some of the major criticism of the novel He looks at approaches such as feminist and Marxist ones considers questions of tone whether or not conclusion is satisfying and discusses negative comments made about several major characters His own interpretation is given in the second half where he looks at such strengths as personal relations Beethoven old houses and the beauty of nature and finally at such key ideas as only connect Distant Desire Parminder Kaur Bakshi, 1996 Distant Desire focuses on the homoerotic desire coded in all of Forster's novels and illustrates how Forster's aesthetics have been formed by the homoerotic tradition of English Literature The theme of male friendship occurs in every novel and is connected with the theme of journey The ideal of male love is conceived as a distant desire The underlying theme of male friendship in Forster's narratives constantly subverts the conventional heterosexual plot of the novels This work combines an interpretation of homoerotic themes with the cultural theories of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries such as Classicism and Orientalism Cahiers Victoriens & Édouardiens ,1991 Books in Print ,1977 English Literature in Transition, 1880-1920 ,1985 The Literary Half-yearly H.
