

An aerial photograph of a city street, likely from the 1930s or 1940s. The street is filled with vintage cars, including a prominent dark sedan in the foreground and several lighter-colored cars further down. Buildings with flat roofs line the street. The overall scene is in black and white, with a high-contrast, slightly grainy quality.

Atlantic Automobilmism Gijs Mom, 2014-12-01 Our continued use of the combustion engine car in the 21st century despite many rational arguments against it makes it more and more difficult to imagine that transport has a sustainable future Offering a sweeping transatlantic perspective this book explains the current obsession with automobiles by delving deep into the motives of early car users It provides a synthesis of our knowledge about the emergence and persistence of the car using a broad range of material including novels poems films and songs to unearth the desires that shaped our present car society Combining social psychological and structural explanations the author concludes that the ability of cars to convey transcendental experience especially for men explains our attachment to the vehicle      "... das Symbol der Ewigkeit ist der Kreis." Mariana Parvanova, 2003
