Showcasing the Great Experiment Michael David-Fox, 2011-12-22

During the 1920s and 1930s thousands of European and American writers professionals scientists artists and intellectuals made a pilgrimage to experience the Soviet experiment for themselves Showcasing the Great Experiment explores the reception of these intellectuals and fellow travelers and their cross cultural and trans ideological encounters in order to analyze Soviet attitudes towards the West Many of the twentieth century's greatest writers and thinkers including Theodore Dreiser Andr Gide Paul Robeson and George Bernard Shaw notoriously defended Stalin's USSR despite the unprecedented violence of its prewar decade While many visitors were profoundly affected by their Soviet tours so too was the Soviet system The early experiences of building showcases and teaching outsiders to perceive the future in the making constitute a neglected international part of the emergence of Stalinism at home Michael David Fox contends that each side critically examined the other negotiating feelings of inferiority and superiority admiration and enmity emulation and rejection By the time of the Great Purges these tensions gave way to the dramatic triumph of xenophobia and isolationism whereas in the twenties the new regime assumed it had much to learn from Western modernity by the Stalinist thirties the Soviet order was declared superior in all respects Drawing on the declassified archival records of the agencies charged with crafting the international image of communism David Fox shows how Soviet efforts to sell the Bolshevik experiment abroad through cultural diplomacy shaped and were in turn shaped by the ongoing project of defining the Soviet Union from within These interwar Soviet methods of mobilizing the intelligentsia for the international ideological contest he argues directly paved the way for the cultural Cold War
