Drugs Of Abuse Immunity And Aids:

Drugs of Abuse, Immunity, and AIDS Pawel Migula, T.W. Klein, S. Specter, 2012-12-06 This volume is based on the program of the Second International Conference on Drugs of Abuse Immunity and AIDS held in Clearwater Beach FL in June 1992 The Conference was supported in part by the University of South Florida College of Medicine with financial assistance from the National Institute on Drug Abuse The focus of this conference was the effects of drugs of abuse on immunity It is now widely recognized that psychoactive drugs of abuse including marijuana cocaine and opiates as well as alcohol have marked effects in an individual including effects on their nervous system and behavior In the past two decades the scope of studies concerning the effects of some drugs of abuse have also involved investigations of alterations of various physiologic parameters including effects on the immune system and the influence of such immune alterations on normal physiological responses In this regard participants in this Second International Conference provided newer information concerning both basic and clinical aspects of drugs of abuse and immunity especially immunodeficiencies In this regard advances have been made in recent years concerning the nature and mechanisms whereby the immune system is regulated and the possible mechanisms by which drugs of abuse influence such immune systems In particular the emergence of psychoneuroimmunology as a new discipline the last decade has heightened interest in the immune responses influenced by psychoactive drugs This has resulted in interdisciplinary investigations involving both clinical and basic scientists including microbiologists immunologists physiologists psychiatrists oncologists psychologists etc Drugs of Abuse, Immunity, and Infections Herman Friedman, Thomas W. Klein, Steven Specter, 1995-12-18 During the past few decades drugs of abuse including marijuana cocaine opiates and alcohol have been studied in detail by biomedical scientists in terms of their effects on the neurophysiology and psychological responses of individuals Research over the last few years has provided increased knowledge about possible mechanisms by which such drugs increase the likelihood of infections in humans and experimental animals In Drugs of Abuse Immunity and Infections prominent investigators review important new information concerning the effects of recreational drugs on susceptibility to infection by microorganisms The volume examines the effects of drugs such as cocaine morphine marijuana and opiates on immunity in humans and animals It covers the molecular and cellular mechanisms of drug induced immunosuppression and describes the overall enhanced susceptibility to infection in recreational drug users It discusses the alteration of susceptibility to the retrovirus that causes the acquired immunodeficiency syndrome AIDS and the consensus that drugs of abuse may serve as a possible cofactor in the progression of AIDS Drugs of Abuse Immunity and Infections also includes important information concerning public health aspects of drugs of abuse and infection Drugs of Abuse, Immunomodulation, and Aids Herman Friedman, John J. Madden, Thomas W.

Klein, 2012-12-06 Introduction and Perspectives This volume represents the Proceedings of the Fifth Annual Symposium on Drugs of Abuse Immunomodulation and AIDS The meeting was held in Nashville Tennessee June 12 14 1997 In this symposium as in the past newer knowledge was reviewed concerning the relationship between the immune and the nervous systems with regard to the effects of drugs of abuse This symposium focused on the relationship between the immune system and the nervous system with regard to the effects of drugs of abuse and infections such as the immunodeficiency virus that causes AIDS As in the past symposia presentations fo cused on the brain immune axis from the viewpoint of drugs of abuse rather than from the subject of the brain or immunity alone The aim of this series of conferences has been to clarify the consequences of immunomodulation induced by drugs of abuse on susceptibility and pathogenesis of infectious diseases both in man and in various animal model systems Recreational use of drugs of abuse such as morphine cocaine and marijuana as well as alcohol by large numbers of individuals in this country and around the world has aroused serious concerns about the consequences of use of such drugs especially on the normal physiological responses of an individual including immune mechanisms It is now widely known that many drugs of abuse including marijuana are used by millions of individuals in this country and by even more abroad

Drugs of Abuse, Immunity, and Immunodeficiency Herman Friedman, Thomas W. Klein, Steven Specter, 2012-12-06 This volume is based on the program of the International Conference on Drugs of Abuse Immunity and Immunodeficiency held in Clearwater Beach Florida It was sponsored by the University of South Florida College of Medicine with the support of the National Institute on Drug Abuse During the past few decades drugs of abuse including marijuana cocaine opiates and alcohol have been studied by biomedical scientists in terms of the systemic effects of the drugs as well as alterations in neurophysiology and the psychology More recently the scope of such investigations has been broadened to include alterations within the immune system and the influence of altered immunity on physiological and psychological consequences of drug abuse In this regard participants in the Clearwater Beach conference provided new information concern ing both basic and clinical aspects of drugs of abuse and immunity especially immunodeficiency Advances have been made in recent years in understanding the nature and mechanisms regulating the immune response and the mechanisms by which drugs may influence immune responses In particular the emergence of psychoneuroimmunology as a new discipline has heightened interest in immune responses influenced by psychoactive drugs This has resulted in interdisciplinary investigations involving clinical and basic scientists including microbiologists immunologists physiologists psychiatrists oncologists and others The recreational use of the above mentioned drugs by large numbers of individuals has aroused serious concern about the consequences of this activity

AIDS Bibliography ,1993 AIDS, Drugs of Abuse, and the Neuroimmune Axis Herman Friedman, Toby K. Eisenstein, John J. Madden, Burt M. Sharp, 2012-12-06 This volume represents the Proceedings of the Symposium on AIDS Drugs of Abuse and the Neuroimmune Axis This meeting was held in San Diego California November 11 13 1995 As in the previous symposia in this series productive studies were reviewed concerning the relationship between the nervous and the immune systems in regards to the relationship between drugs of abuse and infections especially infections by the immunodeficiency virus that causes AIDS In recent years various investigators have begun to describe the role of illicit drugs and their endogenous counterparts on the brain immune axis It is widely recognized that the neuroendocrine system is intimately involved in the effects and manifestations of the interactions of drugs of abuse and the immune system The meeting on which the chapters in this book are based brought together many biological scientists from an array of various scientific disciplines whose work is focused on the effects of drugs of abuse on the neuroendocrine immune axis and its relationships to immunodeficiency caused by the AIDS virus As in the past the symposium was unique in focusing on the brain immune axis from the viewpoint of drugs of abuse rather than from the viewpoint of immunity or the brain itself

Alcohol, Drugs of Abuse and Immunomodulation Ronald Ross Watson,1993 The studies presented in this symposium volume investigate the mechanisms of the immune dysfunction due to alcohol heroin and cocaine use and attempt to elucidate what their ultimate effects are on AIDS cancer growth and infectious disease
