

BOUGAINVILLE CAMPAIGN DIARY

The cover features a detailed illustration of a soldier in a jungle environment. The soldier, in the foreground, is wearing a white t-shirt and a red headband, and is holding a rifle. In the background, other soldiers are visible among the dense green foliage, and a river flows through the landscape. The overall style is that of a classic military campaign diary cover.

Bougainville Campaign Diary:

Bougainville Campaign Diary Yauka Aluambo Liria, 1993 Yauka Liria second son of a traditional chief achieved rank of captain in the Papua New Guinea Defence Force and served in Bougainville as an intelligence officer and as a company commander Combining his skills as a raconteur and service man Liria gives a Melanesian perspective of this war Some Thoughts about "a PNG Officer's Bougainville Campaign Diary", Or, Between Ambivalence and Schizophrenia Max Watts, 1999? The Global War on Your Guns Wayne R. LaPierre, 2006 Social Change in Melanesia Paul Sillitoe, 2000-04-13 This book first published in 2000 is a companion volume to An Introduction to the Anthropology of Melanesia 1998 It gives a clear and absorbing account of social change in Melanesia since the arrival of Europeans covering the history of the colonial period and the new postcolonial states Paul Sillitoe deals with economic and technological change labour migration and urbanisation and formation of the modern state but he also describes the sometimes violent reactions to these dramatic transformations in the form of cargo cults secession movements and insurrections against multinational companies He discusses development projects but brings out associated policy dilemmas reviews developments that threaten the environment and implications for local identity such as romanticises primitive culture This fascinating account of social change in the Pacific is addressed to students with little or no background in the region's history and development

Australia's Arc of Instability Dennis Rumley, Vivian Louis Forbes, Christopher Griffin, 2006-01-12 The idea for this book emerged from a conversation between Vivian Forbes and Charles Eaton following two seminars held in the Department of Geography at the University of Western Australia given by Trevor Soeld and Christopher Griffin more than five years ago One seminar involved papers from Charles Eaton and Christopher Griffin on the recent Speight coup in Fiji the other given by Trevor Soeld was on the Solomon Islands The seminars were attended by among others Dennis Rumley who on getting involved in the conversation suggested the idea of a book and then followed through on its scope structure planning and possible contributors Looking back now we owe a special debt of gratitude to Charles Eaton both for his enthusiasm and his ideas then and for his continued support throughout the whole project Since that time five years ago many people have boarded and have left the Arc Indeed the very project itself exhibited a degree of instability At times it even looked as though it might not stay afloat Thankfully several early boarders remained firmly anchored Other authors were co-opted later some at relatively short notice one or two of them under mild duress We extend our heartfelt thanks to all of these contributors for remaining patient enthusiastic and keeping faith with the project Naturally a project like this dealing with such a large and dynamic region will always be out of date A Kind of Mending Sinclair Dinnen, Anita Jowitt, Tess Newton, 2010-11-01 With their rich traditions of conflict resolution and peacemaking the Pacific Islands provide a fertile environment for developing new approaches to crime and conflict Interactions between formal justice systems and informal methods of dispute resolution contain useful insights for policy makers and others interested in socially attuned resolutions to the problems of order that are found increasingly in the Pacific Islands as elsewhere Contributors to this volume include Pacific Islanders from Vanuatu Fiji the Solomon Islands Papua New Guinea including Bougainville as well as outsiders with a longstanding interest in the region They come from a variety of backgrounds and include criminal justice practitioners scholars traditional leaders and community activists The chapters deal with conflict in a variety of contexts from interpersonal disputes within communities to large scale conflicts between communities This is a book not only of stories but also of practical models that combine different traditions in creative ways and that offer the prospect of building more sustainable resolutions to crime and conflict

APAIS 1994: Australian public affairs information service , Capital and Inequality in Rural Papua New Guinea Bettina Beer,Tobias Schwoerer,2022-06-28 That large scale capital drives inequality in states like Papua New Guinea is clear enough how it does so is less clear This edited collection presents studies of the local contexts of capital intensive projects in the mining oil and gas and agro industry sectors in rural and semi rural parts of Papua New Guinea it asks what is involved when large scale capital and its agents begin to become significant nodes in hitherto more local social networks Its contributors describe the processes initiated by the planned presence of extractive industries that tend to reinforce already existing inequalities or to create and socially entrench novel inequalities The studies largely focus on the beginnings of such transformations when hopes for social improvement are highest and economic inequalities still incipient They show how those hopes and the encompassing socio political transformations characteristic of this phase act to produce far reaching impacts on ways of life setting precedents for and embedding the social distribution of gains and losses The chapters address a range of settings the PNG Liquid Natural Gas pipeline newly established eucalyptus and oil palm plantations a planned copper gold mine and one in which rumours of development diffuse through a rural social network as yet unaffected by any actual or planned capital investments The analyses all demonstrate that questions around land leadership and information are central to the current and future social profile of local inequality in all its facets

Gailey,2013-07-24 The 1943 invasion of Bougainville largest and northernmost of the Solomon Islands and the naval battles during the campaign for the island contributed heavily to the defeat of the Japanese in the Pacific War Here Harry Gailey presents the definitive account of the long and bitter fighting that took place on that now all but forgotten island A maze of swamps rivers and rugged hills

overgrown with jungle Bougainville afforded the Allies a strategic site for airbases from which to attack the Japanese bastion of Rabaul By February of 1944 the Japanese air strength at Rabaul had indeed been wiped out and their other forces there had been isolated and rendered ineffective The early stages of the campaign were unique in the degree of cooperation among Allied forces The overall commander American Admiral Halsey marshaled land air and naval contingents representing the United States Australia and New Zealand Unlike the other island campaigns in the Pacific the fighting on Bougainville was a protracted struggle lasting nearly two years Although the initial plan was simply to seize enough area for three airbases and leave the rest in Japanese hands the Australian commanders who took over in November 1944 decided to occupy the entire island The consequence was a series of hard fought battles that were still going on when Japan s surrender finally brought them to an end For the Americans a notable aspect of the campaign was the first use of black troops Although most of these troops did well the poor performance of one black company was greatly exaggerated in reports and in the media which led to black soldiers in the Pacific theater begin relegated to non combat roles for the remainder of the war Gailey brings again to life this long struggle for an island in the far Pacific and the story of the tens of thousands of men who fought and died there
