Adelman, Benjamin Adelman, 1981 Association Men, 1920 The Tidal Disruption of Stars by Supermassive Black Holes Nicholas Chamberlain Stone, 2014-12-13 This book provides a general introduction to the rapidly developing astrophysical frontier of stellar tidal disruption but also details original thesis research on the subject This work has shown that recoiling black holes can disrupt stars far outside a galactic nucleus errors in the traditional literature have strongly overestimated the maximum luminosity of deeply plunging tidal disruptions the precession of transient accretion disks can encode the spins of supermassive black holes and much more This work is based on but differs from the original thesis that was formally defended at Harvard which received both the Roger Doxsey Award and the Chambliss Astronomy Achievement Student Award from the American Astronomical Society The Witness of the Stars Ethelbert William Bullinger, 1911 Compact Stars Norman K. Glendenning, 2012-12-06 Neutron stars are the smallest dense stars known with densities some 10¹⁴ times that of the Earth They rotate with periods of fractions of a second and their magnetic fields drive intense interstellar dynamos lighting up entire nebulae This text discusses the physics of these extreme objects It includes the needed background in classical general relativity in nuclear and particle physics The Story of the Sun, Moon, and Stars Agnes Giberne, 1908 Under the Stars and under the Crescent Edwin De Leon, 1887 Dynamics and Evolution of Galactic Nuclei David Merritt, 2013-07-21 Deep within galaxies like the Milky Way astronomers have found a fascinating legacy of Einstein's general theory of relativity supermassive black holes Connected to the evolution of the galaxies that contain these black holes galactic nuclei are the sites of uniquely energetic events including quasars stellar tidal disruptions and the generation of gravitational waves This textbook is the first comprehensive introduction to dynamical processes occurring in the vicinity of supermassive black holes in their galactic environment Filling a critical gap it is an authoritative resource for astrophysics and physics graduate students and researchers focusing on galactic nuclei the astrophysics of massive black holes galactic dynamics and gravitational wave detection It is an ideal text for an advanced graduate level course on galactic nuclei and as supplementary reading in graduate level courses on high energy astrophysics and galactic dynamics David Merritt summarizes the theoretical work of the last three decades on the evolution of galactic nuclei the formation of massive black holes and the interaction between black holes and stars He explores in depth such important topics as observations of galactic nuclei dynamical models weighing black holes motion near supermassive black holes evolution of nuclei due to gravitational encounters loss cone theory and binary supermassive black holes Self contained and up to date the textbook includes a summary of the current literature and previously unpublished work by the author For researchers working on active galactic nuclei galaxy evolution and the generation of gravitational waves this book will be an essential resource The Book of Job, with Notes, Introduction and Appendix Andrew Bruce Davidson, 1918 Pillar of Fire, 1920 Towards the Stars Herbert Dennis Bradley, 1924 The Expositor's Greek Testament Sir William Robertson
