

My Boundaries

A boundary is a rule that you create for yourself about how other people are allowed to treat you. You get to choose how comfortable you are with the things that others say or do to you. You also get to decide what and how much information you want to share with others. Use this handout to learn more about boundaries and answer the questions below to figure out what your boundaries look like!

Boundaries include:

HOW OTHERS TOUCH YOU

What kind of touch do you allow from a friend? A family member? A stranger?

If you ever feel uncomfortable or unsafe because someone is "crossing" your boundary, it is best to stand up for yourself and let them know.

PERSONAL SPACE

Who is able to stand close to you? How close do you want them to be?

HOW OTHERS TALK TO YOU

How do you want others to speak to you? Who is allowed to call you by a nickname?

WHAT OTHERS KNOW ABOUT YOU

Who do you share your feelings and secrets with? Who is allowed to know where you live or how to find you?

Do other people have boundaries too?

Yes! Other people have rules too about how you can treat them and how much they want you to know about them. It is important to remember this and to be respectful of the boundaries that they set for themselves!

Sample Book Insights

- 1 The more you can recall how you felt and what you did in your youth the better a parent you will be
- 2 Parents should remember how difficult the teen years can be and connect with their teens as that will help them empathize with them
- 3 Parents want to be remembered by their kids as someone who stuck with them helped them make sense of the world and learned from the consequences of their actions
- 4 Reflect back on your own childhood and see how you handled conflict with your parents You may have been surly and angry or you may have sneakily done what you wanted behind their backs Either way you probably didn't enjoy the alienation
