Comic Turn in Contemporary English Fiction explores the importance of comedy in contemporary literature and culture. In an era largely defined by a mood of crisis, bleakness, cruelty, melancholia, environmental catastrophe, and collapse, Huw Marsh argues that contemporary fiction is as likely to treat these subjects comically as it is to treat them gravely, and that the recognition and proper analysis of this humour opens up new ways to think about literature. Structured around readings of authors including Martin Amis, Nicola Barker, Julian Barnes, Jonathan Coe, Howard Jacobson, Magnus Mills, and Zadie Smith, this book suggests not only that much of the most interesting contemporary writing is funny and that there is a comic tendency in contemporary fiction, but also that this humour, this comic licence, allows writers of contemporary fiction to do peculiar and interesting things, things that are funny in the sense of odd or strange, and that may in turn inspire a funny turn in readers. Marsh offers a series of original critical and theoretical frameworks for discussing questions of literary genre, style, affect, and politics, demonstrating that comedy is an often neglected mode that plays a generative role in much of the most interesting contemporary writing, creating sites of rich political, stylistic, cognitive, and ethical contestation whose analysis offers a new perspective on the present.

The Poetics of Empowerment in David Mitchell's Novels Eva-Maria Windberger, 2023-07-17. The Poetics of Empowerment in David Mitchell's Novels combines the investigation of David Mitchell's novels with the introduction of a new critical concept to literary studies: empowerment. Aiming to situate and establish empowerment firmly within the context of literary studies, it offers the first framework and definition for reading fictional texts with the lens of empowerment and applies it in the analysis of discourse, the fictional characters, and the role of the reader in Mitchell's novels. Drawing on narratological analysis, cognitive approaches to literature, and reader response theory, it features close readings of Cloud Atlas (2004), Black Swan Green (2006), and The Thousand Autumns of Jacob de Zoet (2010) and dissects the author's strategies, poetics, and agenda of empowering fiction. This book argues for an inherent, indissoluble connection between empowerment and the telling of stories, and demonstrates how literary studies can benefit from a serious engagement with empowerment and how such an engagement can stimulate new responses to fiction and put literary studies in conversation with other disciplines.

Compromised Boundaries Holly A. Kellison, 2018-02-03. Jesse Anders lives a simple life in the eyes of outsiders. No one knows her darkest secret except Colin McGowan, the married man who promises to never tell. It isn't until James Cordello reappears into her life that the past that she has kept hidden begins to emerge, as their love quickly intensifies. Knowing she barely survived before, will she be able to endure, coming face to face with her parents' killer? Can James save her from the man that took everything from her? James has easily kept his mercenary work separate from his personal life. That is, until he meets Jesse, the woman who changes everything when a single bullet connects his life and her daunting past. James will abolish any threats to his family, even if it means colluding with the McGowans to end the life of another Markenna.
