Boundary 2 Volume 25 Thinking Through Art:

Expanded Painting Mark Titmarsh, 2017-08-24 The relevance of painting has been questioned many times over the last century by the arrival of photography installation art and digital technologies But rather than accept the death of painting Mark Titmarsh traces a paradoxical interface between this art form and its opposing forces to define a new practice known as expanded painting giving the term historical context theoretical structure and an important place in contemporary practice As the formal boundaries tumble the being of painting expands to become a kind of total art incorporating all other media including sculpture video and performance Painting is considered from three different perspectives ethnology art theory and ontology From an ethnological point of view painting is one of any number of activities that takes place within a culture In art theory terms painting is understood to produce objects of interest for humanities disciplines Yet painting as a medium often challenges both its object and image status expanding and creating hybrid works between painting objects screen media and text Ontologically painting is understood as an object of aesthetic discourse that in turn reflects historical states of being Thus Expanded Painting delivers a new kind of saying a post aesthetic discourse that is attuned to an uncanny tension between the presence and absence of painting

Aesthetic Reason Alan Singer, 2010-11-01 Along these lines he shows that the aesthetic has affinities with the logic of reversal recognition in Greek tragedy and with theories of subject formation based on intersubjective recognition The marking of these affinities sets up a discussion of how the aesthetic can serve protocols of rational choice making Within this perspective aesthetic practice is revealed to be a meaningful social enterprise rather than an effete refuge from the conflicts of social existence

Thinking Through Art Daniel T. O'Hara, Alan Singer, 1998 In the eighteenth century the category of the aesthetic sought to bridge the gap between the prevalent dualities of Cartesian thought art and science history and science prejudice and truth This special issue of boundary 2 addresses current debates about the status of art in the context of global modernity The range of arguments represented here cover a broad historical scope from Cartesianism to present day global modernity of cultural discourse on the aesthetic to bring a focus to contemporary discussions of the corollary concepts of beauty virtue taste and truth These essays present a rich and provocative account of the place of the aesthetic in late twentieth century culture Included in this volume are considerations of the relation between theories of art and the avant garde art's relation to cognition the aesthetic as history the aesthetic as a unique access to modernity and its impact on problems of identity formation ideology and resistances to the institutional powers inherent in dominant social formations Contributors Charles Altieri Peter Burger David Carroll Anthony J Cascardi Howard Caygill Allen Dunn Eric Gans Agnes Heller Ronald A T Judy Marie Rose Logan Daniel T O'Hara Donald E Pease Alan Singer

Transnationalism and Translation in Modern Chinese, English, French and Japanese Literatures Ryan Johnson,2020-12-15 The theory of literary worlds has become increasingly important in comparative and world literatures But how are the often contradictory elements of Eastern and Western literatures to cohere in the new worlds such contact creates Drawing on the latest work in philosophical logic and analytic Asian philosophy this monograph proposes a new model of literary worlds that is best suited to comparative literature dealing with Western and East Asian traditions Unlike much discussion of world literature anchored in North American traditions featured here is the transnational work of artists philosophers and poets writing in English French Japanese and Mandarin in the twentieth century Rather than imposing sharp borders this book suggests that vague boundaries link Eastern and Western literary works and traditions and that degrees of distance can better help us to see the multiple dimensions that both distinguish and join together literary worlds East and West As such it enables us to grasp not only how East Asian and Western writers translate one another s works into their own languages and traditions but also how modern writers East and West modify their own traditions in order to make them fit in the new constellation of literary worlds brought about by the complex flow of literary information across twentieth century Eurasia
