Child Abuse Delinquency Connection:

The Child Abuse-delinquency Connection David N. Sandberg, 1989 Exploring the Relationship Between Child Abuse and Delinquency Robert J. Hunner, Yvonne Elder Walker, 1981 Relationship Between Child Abuse, Juvenile Delinquency, and Adult Criminality United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Juvenile Justice, 1984 Child Maltreatment Elizabeth A. MacDonald, 2010 Children may experience many different types of maltreatment such as physical abuse emotional abuse neglect sexual abuse and in some excessive cases death It is estimated that over three million children a year will fall victim to childhood maltreatment These children are more commonly victimized at the hands of their parents or caretakers than by strangers or family friends Medical researchers such as DeBellis et al 2002 Teicher 2000 2002 Widom 1999 and their associates demonstrate that the brain is permanently altered when children are exposed to childhood maltreatment According to Bandura 1959 1962 1975 1976 1977 Skinner 1953 1977 and Akers 1966 1973 1985 1989 1994 1998 children learn social behavior by observing and imitating models Again altering behavior in a negative fashion Research indicates that children who experience childhood maltreatment in their lifetime are approximately 59% more likely to become involved in delinquent or criminal behavior Tuell 2002 p 2 It has also been shown that abused children also recidivate at a rate of 1.5 times more than children who are not subjected to maltreatment Thornberry 1994 Further in the year 2007 child maltreatment cost U S citizens 103.8 billion This research project examined the correlation between childhood maltreatment and adult criminality juvenile delinquency through a survey design research project The survey instrument was given to 500 college age adults and 500 adults currently incarcerated in the Mahoning County Jail in Ohio The researcher analyzed statistics looking for correlations between the opinions that these two groups specifically focusing on their beliefs how childhood maltreatment impacts criminality Results from the study revealed that although the students and inmates had similar beliefs when asked if they believed child abuse created a child to be more apt to become delinquent and the appropriate ages for said topics there was a difference between actual life experiences from students to inmates The inmates at Mahoning County jail were more likely to report that they had experienced some form of childhood maltreatment than the students at Youngstown State The Relationship Between Childhood Sexual, Emotional, and Physical Abuse to Juvenile Delinquency and Adult Criminality Stacey-Ann Marie Gordon, 2006 Chronic Acting-out Students and Child Abuse David N. Merlo, 2014-10-10 After providing a history of the development of the juvenile court this book explores some of the most important current controversies in juvenile justice Original essays review major theories of juvenile delinquency explore psychological and biological factors that may explain delinquent behavior and examine the nexus between substance abuse and delinquency A final chapter provides a comparative analysis The Relationship Between Child Abuse and Neglect and

THE EFFECTS OF CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT reviews the findings from current longitudinal research and also serves as an authoritative guide to the complex methodologic issues involved in conducting such studies The book's introductory chapter examines the intergenerational transmission of abusive behavior and its adult sequelae In depth analyses of three innovative longitudinal investigations follow the first focuses on the value of an at risk approach to research in this area the second evaluates structural equations modeling a relatively new statistical method and the third demonstrates the usefulness of a transactional approach to the longitudinal study of different forms of maltreatment Other contributions focus specifically on the interpretation of existing research and on conducting future studies Provocative discussions on crucial definitional
