Child Care Crisis:

Crawling Behind: America's Child Care Crisis and How to Fix It Elliot Haspel, 2019 I've totally washed away the dream of having one more child I had never intended to be a stay at home parent but the cost of child care turned me into one We had to pull our toddler out of his program because we couldn't afford to have two kids in high quality care These are not the voices of those down on their luck but the voices of America's middle class The lack of affordable available high quality childcare is a boulder on the backs of all but the most affluent Millions of hard working families are left gasping for air while the next generation misses out on a strong start To date we've been fighting this five alarm fire with the policy equivalent of beach toy water buckets It's time for a bold investment in America's families and America's future There's only one viable solution Childcare should be free

Who Cares for our Children? Valerie Polakow, 2007 Valerie Polakow spent a year traveling around the country listening to low income women from diverse backgrounds tell their stories of struggle resilience distress and occasional success as they encountered ongoing child care crises The resulting work is both a compelling account of the lived realities of the child care crisis and an incisive critique of public policy that points to the United States as an outlier in the international community Drawing on historical and international perspectives Polakow creates a groundbreaking analysis of child care as a human right persuasively arguing for a universal child care system Who Cares for Our Children is one of the most disturbing books I have read in a long time It should have a major impact on debates over poverty and social policy From the Foreword by Barbara Ehrenreich author of Nickel and Dimed In this beautifully written and provocative volume Polakow deftly steps aside and lets real mothers struggling against the odds to keep their families safe and sound speak for themselves about what they need This book delivers a timely message Child care should be viewed as a human right Martha F Davis Northeastern University School of Law A collection of moving and often chilling personal narratives Who Cares for Our Children is a powerful and well documented analysis of the worlds of low income families Beth Blue Swadener Arizona State University Thoroughly researched and grounded in a heartfelt sympathy for the struggles of families that face such painful choices and dilemmas in meeting the needs of their children James Garbarino Loyola University Chicago

America's Child-Care Crisis Sarah Taylor Vanover, 2021-05 The child care industry essential to American families and to the American economy is at risk of complete collapse Before COVID 19 struck the child care industry faced funding issues and staffing dilemmas while families struggled to find or simply afford quality child care The reality is that COVID 19 has only exacerbated the challenges of the already fragile child care ecosystem America's Child Care Crisis takes a hard look at the current state of the industry and explores how to save this critical service by Identifying the systemic changes needed Altering public opinion of the field Securing state and federal dollars for the private sector Prioritizing the growth of family child care homes Educating parents on quality care and helping them access it Obtaining business support Child care is a system that is too critical to fail we cannot survive without it Together we can reimagine the child care industry for all Americans whose livelihoods depend on it Child Care Crisis Diane Lindsey Reeves,1992 The Four-thirds Solution Stanley Greenspan,Jacqueline Salmon,2001-10-11 One of America s leading child psychiatrists reveals how parents can give young children the very best start while maintaining their working lives maternal workers continue to organize against low pay exploitative working conditions and state retrenchment and provides a unique theorization of feminist divisions and solidarities Bringing together social reproduction with maternal studies this is a resonating call to build a cross sectoral intersectional movement around childcare Maud Perrier shows why social reproduction needs to be at the centre of a critical theory of work care and mothering for post pandemic times
