Child Health and Survival, 1987 Reimagining Global Health Paul Farmer, Arthur Kleinman, Jim Kim, Matthew Basilio, 2013-09-07

Bringing together the experience perspective and expertise of Paul Farmer Jim Yong Kim and Arthur Kleinman Reimagining Global Health provides an original compelling introduction to the field of global health Drawn from a Harvard course developed by their student Matthew Basilio this work provides an accessible and engaging framework for the study of global health Insisting on an approach that is historically deep and geographically broad the authors underline the importance of a transdisciplinary approach and offer a highly readable distillation of several historical and ethnographic perspectives of contemporary global health problems The case studies presented throughout Reimagining Global Health bring together ethnographic theoretical and historical perspectives into a wholly new and exciting investigation of global health The interdisciplinary approach outlined in this text should prove useful not only in schools of public health nursing and medicine but also in undergraduate and graduate classes in anthropology sociology political economy and history among others

The Politics of Children's Survival George Kent, 1991 The central concern of this pioneering study is the high rate of child mortality worldwide and the prospects for its reduction Taking as his major focus socioeconomic factors and their effect on children s survival George Kent asks not only what technical interventions might be undertaken within meager health budgets but also why are those budgets so inadequate He examines the social and political roots of child mortality around the world and finds that the problem arises from widespread powerlessness in the populations of less developed countries Thus he argues remedies should center on strategies of empowerment designed in such a way that their benefits persist long after the intervention has ended Following an introductory chapter which describes overall patterns of children s mortality the author examines the individual and household factors which contribute to the problem and the programmatic responses associated with these factors Subsequent chapters explore child survival in relation to larger societal issues discussing in turn food poverty war repression and population as they affect child mortality Kent then turns his attention to strategies for child survival that are sensitive to these social factors Separate chapters address alternative designs of social systems the idea of viewing children as a form of human capital the problem of motivating the politically powerful to support child survival work rethinking the meaning of national development and the challenge of planning for children s survival in concrete site specific situations Finally Kent discusses the potential of national and international law and institutions for improving children s prospects An ideal supplemental text for courses in economic development and political economy this book is also essential reading for policymakers and relief organization managers concerned with the widespread problem of child mortality

Introduction to Global Health Kathryn H. Jacobsen, 2022-10-10 Introduction to Global Health provides a comprehensive examination of the key global health issues today and unlike other global health texts on the market aligns with key global health frameworks such as the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and in this fourth edition the newly approved CUGH learning objectives Rural Development Abstracts ,1990 BMJ ,1989 Training Manual in Applied Medical Anthropology Carole E. Hill,1991 Medicine and Health in Africa: 1987 ,1988 The Economic and Demographic Determinants of Child Growth Retardation in Rural Rwanda Scott Grosse,1996 The Role of Renewable Energy Technology in Holistic Community Development Alexander Zahnd,2014-01-25 This thesis documents almost twenty years of the author s work on the development and implementation of a new approach to holistic community development in remote and disadvantaged villages in Nepal It describes the theoretical basis of the work the main research activities and the practical outcomes of the implemented programs One of the fundamental cornerstones of holistic community development is the provision of appropriate and sustainable solutions for the long term development of local communities This requires that people s own identified needs be recognized and addressed in partnership with them in holistic ways The author explains the many synergies that result from this holistic approach to community development Another cornerstone of his approach is to utilise the communities locally available renewable resources for long term sustainable development One of the key findings of the thesis is that improved access to energy services such as cooking with a smokeless metal stove in a clean indoor environment basic indoor lighting and increased food production and safe food storage through a greenhouse and a solar drier respectively need to be at the very heart of any long term holistic community development project The thesis demonstrates that tapping into locally available renewable energy resources and converting them through contextualized and locally manufactured renewable energy technologies has a central role in long term holistic community development programs Such programs are successful because they provide both appropriate technologies and life changing experiences for the local users involved Rural Extension, Education and Training Abstracts ,1988

Children, Women, and Development in Botswana ,1989 Afghanistan Studies Journal ,1993 Health Care in Muslim Asia Ronald W. O'Connor,1994 Afghanistan had the world s highest rates of infant child and maternal deaths when Management Sciences for Health began its project to train and support health workers This book uses that project to discuss the problems and potential for health development in remote war torn areas The field team s efforts provide insight into such problems as coordination among donors of foreign aid and strategies for immunization and family planning The book analyzes in detail broader issues of health care development such as the management of health systems in times of disorder the politics of international assistance and women s access to health services in Islamic societies Contributors Laurence Laumonier Ickx Paul Ickx Ronald W O Connor William Oldham John W LeSar Richard Johnson Jonathan D Quick S M Amin Fatimie Peter J Huff Rousselle Linda Tawfik Vimal Dias and Mary Gasper ro published with Management Sciences for Health

Health Care of Women and Children in Developing Countries Helen M. Wallace,Kanti Giri,1990 Determinants of Health and Mortality in Africa Allan G. Hill,Population Council,1990 Utopia Lost Rosemary Righter,1995 Rosemary Righter examines the UN s future place in a world of tumultuous political and technological change presenting an anatomy of the complex tangle of global organizations that has evolved since 1946 and of their struggle to adapt She argues that the ideals and cooperative purposes the UN stands for retain their resonance and that powerful governments are now readier in principle to turn to it But they will continue to do so only where and if it matches the needs of a new and more active era of multilateral diplomacy Righter examines every aspect of the UN the hopes and contradictions built into its Charter the unreality which has come to permeate what passes for debate there the legacy of ideological confrontation and the tides of reforming zeal that almost since its inception have washed over it and left almost no trace Index of Conference Proceedings Received British Library.
