1. Our body is amazing. We have an immune system and this protects us from germs that cause disease.

2. Human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) is a virus that weakens our immune system and stops our bodies protecting us well from everyday germs. If HIV is not treated, it can lead to AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome).

5. Children with HIV need strong support from their family, friends and teachers and encouragement to keep going with their medication to stay healthy.

3. HIV lives in the blood and other body fluids and is invisible to the eye. It can be passed on (1) through sex, (2) from HIV positive mother to their babies during pregnancy, delivery or breastfeeding, (3) in needles or syring, and (4) through blood transfusions.

4. Medicines called antiretrovirals (ARV) keep HIV levels low so a person can live a long time. ARV prevent the spread of the virus to others.

= LONG LIFE

6. People with HIV can stay strong, share food and drink, hold hands, kiss and hug other people. People do not pass on HIV this way.

7. A medicine called PrEP (Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis) helps protect people who are at risk of getting HIV.

8. People protect themselves from getting HIV from sex by (1) having sex using condoms (preffered) and (2) being in a sexual relationship where both partners are HIV negative and do not have sex with others. (3) taking Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP).

9. To help themselves and others, adults who think they may have HIV can do a simple test at a health clinic or with a self test at home.

10. Pregnant women should be tested for HIV at the antenatal clinic. If positive, they should get treatment to keep them healthy and stop HIV passing to their baby during pregnancy, delivery and breastfeeding.

Children's Palliative Care in Africa Justin Amery,2009

Children s palliative care has developed rapidly as a discipline as health care professionals recognise that the principles of adult palliative care may not always be applicable to children at the end of life The unique needs of dying children are particularly evident across Africa where the scale of the problem is overwhelming and the figures so enormous that they are barely comprehensible over 400 000 children in Africa died from AIDS in 2003 and out of the 166 000 children a year diagnosed with cancer 84% of these are in the developing world Despite the enormous need provision of children s palliative care in Africa is almost non existent with very few health workers trained and confident to provide care for dying children The challenges of providing palliative care in this setting are different to those in more developed countries contending with the shortage of physical and human resources in addition to the vast scope of the care needed Written by a group with wide experience of caring for dying children in Africa this book provides practical realistic guidance on improving access to and delivery of palliative care in this demanding setting It looks at the themes common to palliative care including communication assessment symptom management psychosocial issues ethical dilemmas end of life care and tips for the professional on compassion and conservation of energy but always retains the focus on the particular needs of the health care professional in Africa Whilst containing some theory the emphasis is on practical action throughout It will provide health care professionals working in Africa and other resource poor settings with the confidence knowledge and capacity to improve care for the terminally ill child in constrained and demanding environments
