Children And War A Historical Anthology:

Children and War James Marten, 2002-08-24 This anthology is breathtaking in its geographic and temporal sweep Canadian Journal of History The American media has recently discovered children's experiences in present day wars A week long series on the plight of child soldiers in Africa and Latin America was published in Newsday and newspapers have decried the U S government's reluctance to sign a United Nations treaty outlawing the use of under age soldiers These and numerous other stories and programs have shown that the number of children impacted by war as victims casualties and participants has mounted drastically during the last few decades Although the scale on which children are affected by war may be greater today than at any time since the world wars of the twentieth century children have been a part of conflict since the beginning of warfare Children and War shows that boys and girls have routinely contributed to home front war efforts armies have accepted under aged soldiers for centuries and war time experiences have always affected the ways in which grown up children of war perceive themselves and their societies The essays in this collection range from explorations of childhood during the American Revolution and of the writings of free black children during the Civil War to children's home front war efforts during World War II representations of war and defeat in Japanese children's magazines and growing up in war torn Liberia Children and War provides a historical context for two centuries of children's multi faceted involvement with war

Lessons of War James Alan Marten, 1998 Presents essays editorials articles poems games short stories and letters that tell the story of the Civil War

Building the Resilient Community M. Jan Holton, 2011-01-01 How do some communities around the world that suffer outrageous violence and trauma manage with few outside resources not only to survive but to thrive September 11 the devastation of hurricane Katrina school shootings and other events of community violence and trauma have taught us as a nation and a church about the fundamental importance of building a caring community that fosters resilience and hope Building the Resilient Community takes a refreshing turn of perspective by giving priority not only to the formally educated voices of the West but to those among the most marginalized and invisible in the world refugees Based on ethnographic research in Kakuma Refugee Camp and remote villages of southern Sudan Holton presents a communal case study of a group of devoutly Christian refugees known as the Lost Boys of Sudan and asks the question Might they have something to teach us about being a resilient community As Holton investigates their deeply embedded cultural and religious beliefs that nurture a profound sense of responsibility toward others we find a communal relationship that reflects a unique sense of care and obligation This deep frame for communal care breaks through as the root of a remarkable faith narrative that serves to help mitigate symptoms of trauma and to undergird resilience and may do the same for us

Women, Children, and the Collective Face of Conflict in Europe, 1900-1950 Nupur Chaudhuri, Sandra Trudgen Dawson, 2023-10-17 Europe was in turmoil during the first half of the twentieth century The political stability that emanated from nineteenth century political liberalism began to break down reaching climaxes in the Great War the Spanish Civil War and the Second World War Revolutions in Russia and Spain threatened parliamentary governments and the Armenian genocide that began in 1915 foreshadowed the systematic destruction of European Jews in the 1930s and 1940s Dictators seized power and established authoritarian regimes that stymied democratic expression and censored the press Much of the scholarship on each of the conflicts has tended to focus on the military male and the civilian female binary Women and children experienced every conflict during this tumultuous period as civilians consumers victims exiles and combatants As histories of women and war suggest there are exciting new areas of research and scholarship that resist simplistic binaries Women were not simply civilians or victims They were actors in the minutiae of wars revolutions dictatorships and genocides Children were present in these conflicts and not invisible as many histories suggest They too were actors and often politicized by propagandist literature and sectarian education through their own experiences and the politics of their families This collection seeks to complicate the child adult distinction and examine the experiences of women and children as lenses to view a more collective face of conflict While the volume brings to attention conflicts in Europe the editors acknowledge the global ramifications of the revolutions wars and genocides as well as the multitude of individual experiences This collection seeks to expand understanding of the personal as the political in European conflicts from 1900 1950 We believe the focus on women and children offers a diverse perspective on five tumultuous decades of European history

Churchill's Children John Welshman, 2010-03-25 Based on the stories of thirteen children and adults Churchill's Children tells the often moving story of the evacuation of schoolchildren in Britain during the Second World War from the perspective of the children themselves as well as the many adults who were caught up in this massive wartime enterprise

Childhood Deployed Susan Shepler, 2014-06-06 Childhood Deployed examines the reintegration of former child soldiers in Sierra Leone Based on eighteen months of participant observer ethnographic fieldwork and ten years of follow up research the book argues that there is a fundamental disconnect between the Western idea of the child soldier and the individual lived experiences of the child soldiers of Sierra Leone Susan Shepler contends that the reintegration of former child soldiers is a political process having to do with changing notions of childhood as one of the central structures of society For most Westerners the tragedy of the idea of child soldier centers around perceptions of lost and violated innocence In contrast Shepler finds that for most Sierra Leoneans the problem is not lost innocence but the horror of being separated from one's family and the resulting generational break in youth education Further Shepler argues that Sierra Leonean former child soldiers find themselves forced to strategically perform or refuse to perform as the child soldier Western human rights initiatives expect in order to most effectively gain access to the resources available for their social reintegration The strategies don't always work in some cases Shepler finds Western human rights initiatives do more harm than good While this volume focuses on the well known case of child soldiers in Sierra Leone it speaks to the larger concerns of childhood studies with a detailed ethnography of people struggling over the situated meaning of the categories of childhood It offers an example of the cultural politics of childhood in action in which the very definition of childhood is at stake and an important site of political contestation
