Children And Young People In Conflict With The Law:

Children and Young People in Conflict with the Law Stewart Asquith,1996 The contributors to this volume examine current developments in juvenile justice philosophies practices and policies in the light of the changing nature of offending by children and young people The tension between welfare and justice approaches and how this might be resolved is given particular attention The contributors recognise the increasing obligation of recognising the rights of young people who offend and trace the relationship between explanations of offending by this group and the implications these have for the development of relevant and effective crime prevention strategies They consider the international arena as well as the different systems in the United Kingdom With reviews of juvenile justice systems and measures for dealing with juvenile offenders being undertaken in most European countries British developments are evaluated in the broader context of general trends in offending by children and young people Youth in Conflict with the Law, 3rd edition Paul Maxim,Paul C.

Whitehead,2017-08-18 Employing a historical perspective this well regarded author team examines the relationship between police and youth offenders according to the Youth Criminal Justice Act YCJA and addresses the challenges officers face when dealing with young persons the way police are perceived by young persons and the strategies police use to positively interact with youth offenders Procedures for arresting questioning detaining processing and sentencing young persons are clearly explained Ideal for college police foundations students in Canada Youth in Conflict with the Law walks readers through the various legislations established to protect young persons This book encourages students to consider the problem of youth crime within social contexts and ultimately to recognize the factors that lead youth to enter into conflict with the law

Youth in Conflict with the Law Denise Louise Whitehead,Mark Hunter,2018 Dealing with young people who come into conflict with the law is one of the most important parts of being a police officer Now in its fourth edition Youth in Conflict with the Law provides up to date analysis on how police handle young persons while focusing on new and updated legislation such as the Canadian Victims Bill of Rights the Safe Streets and Communities Act and the Child Youth and Family Services Act The authors include new material on issues of race the Black Lives Matter movement mental health ethnicity and social media The book encourages students to consider the problem of youth crime within social contexts and to recognize the facts that lead youth to enter into conflict with the law This resource is ideal for college police foundations students across Canada

Children, Young People and the Press in a Transitioning Society Faith Gordon,2018-03-10 This book assesses the implications of how children and young people are represented in print media in Northern Ireland a post conflict transitioning society Gordon analyses how children and young people s perceived involvement in anti social and criminal behaviour is constructed and amplified in media as well as in popular and political discourses Drawing on deviancy amplification folk devils and moral panics this original study specifically addresses the labelling perspective and confirms that young people are convenient scapegoats where their negative reputation diverts attention from the structural and institutional issues that are inevitable in a post conflict society Alongside content analysis from six months of print media and a case study on the representation of youth involvement in sectarian rioting this book also analyses interviews with editors journalists politicians policy makers and a spokesperson for the Police Service of Northern Ireland Noting the importance of prioritising the experiences of children young people and their advocates this timely and engaging research will be of specific interest to scholars and students of criminal justice criminology socio legal studies sociology social policy media studies politics and law as well as media professionals and policy makers

Children in Conflict with the Law Ursula Kilkelly, Louise Forde, Sharon Lambert, Katharina Swirak, 2023 This book presents an original synthesis of the leading international research on children in conflict with the law providing an evidence base for a rights based justice system Informed by international children s rights standards this book presents relevant research findings in a clear succinct and accessible manner identifying the key evidence underpinning three rights based themes of Prevention Diversion and Justice and Reintegration This book is the first analysis to map leading inter disciplinary research against the international children s rights framework in relation to children and the justice system In this way it provides a unique evidence base for the implementation of children s rights in youth justice and will support all those seeking to study advocate or implement progressive approaches to children in conflict with the law Ursula Kilkelly is Professor of Law in the School of Law at University College Cork Ireland She has researched and published extensively on international children s rights including children in conflict with the law Ursula is co editor of Youth Justice the leading journal in the field and in 2022 2023 holds the Rotating Chair in the Enforcement of Children s Rights in Leiden University the Netherlands Louise Forde is Lecturer at Brunel Law School Brunel University London UK She researches and writes on youth justice and children s rights and has a particular interest in translating international children s rights law into practice and children s participation Sharon Lambert is Lecturer in the School of Applied Psychology at University College Cork Ireland She has significant experience of working in community based settings with socially excluded groups Her area of expertise is trauma Informed service design Katharina Swirak is Lecturer in the Department of Sociology and Criminology at University College Cork Ireland Her research interests include amongst others young people and social harm the intersections of criminal justice and social policy and social reintegration after prison

Children, Youth, and Participatory Arts for Peacebuilding Ananda Breed, Helena-Ulrike Marambio, Kirrily Pells, Rajib Timalisina, 2024-06-14 This book demonstrates how participatory arts based approaches can help children and youth contribute to peacebuilding within post conflict contexts and to their communities Cultural forms of storytelling through visual arts drama music and dance can help to enhance post conflict community well being social cohesion and conflict prevention However in the planning and implementation of these arts based projects children and youth are often marginalised in decision making processes Drawing on cases from Kyrgyzstan Rwanda Indonesia and Nepal this book demonstrates the benefits of participatory action research with children and youth to inform education curricula and policies for sustaining peace Showing how artforms can be adapted to meet the needs of children and youth the book emphasises the need to scale up arts based peacebuilding initiatives and leverage for greater policy enactment from the bottom up It is also an excellent example of South South learning advocating for a local approach to engage with arts based methodologies and peacebuilding This book will be of interest to researchers across the applied arts sociology anthropology political science peacebuilding and international development Practitioners and policymakers would also benefit from the book s recommendations for the implementation of successful arts based research projects and interventions

International Perspectives on Youth Conflict and Development Colette Daiute,Zeynep F. Beykont,Craig Higson-Smith,Larry Nucci,2006-03-30 The volume aims to shift the foundation of youth conflict study from the more typical focus on maturation behavior and personality to a characterization of youth as participants in society It also expands the analysis of youth development to include societal problems such as political instability unequal access to material resources racism and social injustice Offering new insights about the interdependent spheres of conflict involving young people this groundbreaking international compilation describes processes of a violent world rather than of violent youth

Children, Youth and Development Nicola Ansell,2016-08-08 The new updated edition of Children Youth and Development explores the varied ways in which global processes in the form of development policies economic and cultural globalisation and international agreements interact with more locally specific practices to shape the lives of young people living in the poorer regions of the world It examines these processes and the effects they have on young people s lives in relation to developing theoretical approaches to the study of children and youth This landmark title brings together the stock of knowledge and approaches to understanding young people s lives in the context of development and globalization in the majority world for the first time It introduces different theoretical approaches to the study of young people and explores the ways in which these along with predominantly Western conceptions of childhood and youth have influenced how majority world children have been viewed and treated by international agencies Contexts of globalisation and growing international inequality are explored alongside more immediate contexts such as family and peer relationships Chapters are devoted to groups of children deemed to be in need of protection and to debates concerning children s rights and their participation in development projects Young people s health and education are considered as is their involvement in work of various kinds and the impacts of environmental change and hazards including climate change The book introduces material and concepts to readers in a very accessible way and within each chapter employs features such as boxed case studies summaries of key ideas discussion questions and guides to further resources This edition has been updated to take account of significant changes in the contexts in which poor children grow up notably the financial crisis and changing development policy environment as well as recent theoretical developments It is aimed at students on higher level undergraduate and postgraduate courses as well as researchers who are unfamiliar with this area of research and practitioners in organisations working to ameliorate the lives of children in majority world countries
