Borrowed Rites:

An Inculturation Model of the Catholic Marriage Ritual David William Antonio, 2002 In An Inculturation Model of the Catholic Marriage Ritual David William Antonio presents a model of how the Catholic Ritual of Marriage may be adapted to the language culture and traditions of a particular people specifically the Ilocanos of Northern Luzon in the Philippines. Vatican II called for the revision and adaptation of the rite of marriage exhorting local churches to develop their own rites suited to their people's particular customs and traditions. The work of preparing a rite of marriage for a particular region cannot be limited to merely translating the typical edition. There has to be a thorough examination of both the editio typica and the people's religious and cultural traditions, the socio-economic and political realities that confront them, attending to the positive values expressed therein. Only a dialogical process such as this will guarantee a liturgy that is faithful to the Christian tradition and meaningful to a given people. An Inculturation Model of the Catholic Marriage Ritual will serve as a model for people of other cultures who have to do similar liturgical preparation and will be important especially to churches whose membership includes people who experienced colonization but never lost the riches of their own cultures in the blending of cultures and beliefs that followed.

Döring, 2006-07-11 This study takes a look at a controversial question: what do the acts and shows of grief performed in early modern drama tell us about the religious culture of the world in which they were historically staged. Drawing on performance studies, it provides detailed readings of play texts to explore the politics, pathologies, and parodies of mourning.

The Universal Jewish Encyclopedia ... Isaac Landman, Simon Cohen, 1943 Borrowed Rites Judith Stephens, 1986 The discovery of a blonde mummy in storage at a University of California Berkeley research facility sets off a series of events involving Lily West, a young woman archaeologist recently returned to Berkeley from Afghanistan. In Afghanistan, Lily had been attacked after receiving the diary of another young woman anthropologist who has since disappeared. In Berkeley, the attacks continue as she assists the police in identifying the mummy and catching the killer.
