Boundaries Of Science:

The Dappled World Nancy Cartwright, 1999-09-23 This important and innovative collection of essays argues for a patchwork of laws of nature

Cultural Boundaries of Science Thomas F. Gieryn, 1999-01-15 Why is science so credible Usual answers center on scientists objective methods or their powerful instruments In his new book Thomas Gieryn argues that a better explanation for the cultural authority of science lies downstream when scientific claims leave laboratories and enter courtrooms boardrooms and living rooms On such occasions we use maps to decide who to believe cultural maps demarcating science from pseudoscience ideology faith or nonsense Gieryn looks at episodes of boundary work Was phrenology good science How about cold fusion Is social science really scientific Is organic farming After centuries of disputes like these Gieryn finds no stable criteria that absolutely distinguish science from non science Science remains a pliable cultural space flexibly reshaped to claim credibility for some beliefs while denying it to others In a timely epilogue Gieryn finds this same controversy at the heart of the raging science wars

The Disunity of Science Peter Louis Galison, David J. Stump, 1996 Is science unified or disunified Over the last century the question has raised the interest and hackles of scientists philosophers historians and sociologists of science for at stake is how science and society fit together Recent years have seen a turn largely against the rhetoric of unity ranging from the plea of condensed matter physicists for disciplinary autonomy all the way to discussions in the humanities and social sciences that involve local history feminism multiculturalism postmodernism scientific relativism and realism and social constructivism Many of these varied aspects of the debate over the disunity of science are reflected in this volume which brings together a number of scholars studying science who otherwise have had little to say to each other feminist theorists philosophers of science sociologists of science How does the context of discover shape knowledge What are the philosophical consequences of a disunified science Does for example an antirealism a realism or an arealism become defensible within a picture of local scientific knowledge What politics lies behind and follows from a picture of the world of science more like a quilt than a pyramid Who gains and loses if representation of science has standards that vary from place to place field to field and practitioner to practitioner
