Child Protection Practices In Ireland:

Child Protection Practices in Ireland Helen Buckley, Caroline Skehill, Eoin O'Sullivan, 1997 Based on a research study of child protection practices in one health board region in Ireland this study focuses on the work of a range of practitioners including social workers Gardai public health nurses and child care workers It underlines the complexities around the issue highlighting areas where professional and political attention and investment could lead to improvements in practices and outcomes

Child Protection Work Helen Buckley, 2003 Based on a qualitative study of child protection practices this book takes a detailed look at what professionals actually do contrasting the relatively straightforward process illustrated in procedural guidance with the uncertainty of the real world of child protection work Having observed case discussions and child protection conferences and interviewed professionals involved in child protection work Helen Buckley sets out to clarify the factors that influence decision making in this field Exploring the practice frameworks and sense making techniques employed by child care professionals she demonstrates the importance of the cultural political and organisational context in which the work is carried out The processing of reported child protection concerns is followed from the earliest stages of identification to assessment conferencing and long term monitoring In addition data from interviews with parents who have been involved in child protection investigations provides a vitally important perspective for professionals Emphasising that practice is a dynamic process requiring constant reflection and review this book looks beyond procedural guidelines to help professionals academics and policy makers involved with child assessment and protection to gain a deeper understanding of their work

National Systems of Child Protection Lisa Merkel-Holguin, John D. Fluke, Richard D. Krugman, 2018-08-06 This volume provides a wide spectrum description analysis of the contemporary and well established child protection systems in a range of countries such as Australia Canada Netherlands and Spain It presents a brief orientation about the public and private systems involved in protecting children in each country Further the book identifies current key policy and implementation drivers that orient the systems of child protection such as children s rights family preservation use of evidence and public health orientation Finally it presents a critical analysis of the strengths and limitations of the systems as well as strategies for prospects for improving outcomes for children and their families

Systems Complexity in Child Protection and Welfare Aisling Gillen, John Canavan, Carmel Devaney, Caroline McGregor, 2024-12-03 This book examines systems complexity theory and specifically system and dynamic characteristics of complexity with a key focus on self organisation emergence adaptation path dependence and bifurcation Exploring systems complexity at the heart of child protection and welfare policymaking leadership practice and evaluation and implications for policymakers leaders practitioners and evaluators in managing its impact it proposes a systems complexity evaluation framework to assist identification accommodation and decision making in child protection and welfare practice services and systems Using national case studies practice and research examples it illustrates how adopting a complexity focus to Child Protection Work
