Children's Emotions and Moods Michael Lewis, 2012-12-06 No one would deny the proposition that in order to understand human behavior and development one must understand feelings The in tere st in emotions is enduring Yet within the discipline of psychology the study of feelings and emotions has been somewhat less than re spectable a stepchild to the fields of cognitive science and psycho linguistics PerusaI of the language acquisition literature reveals a greater concern among psychologists for the acquisition of prepositions than for terms that convey feelings Without question issues related to emo tion its development and its measurement have been neglected in the research literature until quite recently From a developmental perspective Piaget and his followers have articulated a complex theory of transition and change in intellectual behavior Nearly a century ago Freud proposed an elaborate theory of personality development in which some aspects of emotional growth were considered We await the construction of a comprehensive theory of emotional development Recognizing such a need we set out over a decade ago to solve what seemed to be a relatively simple problem By observing young children could one successfully classify children in terms of individual differences on emotional dimensions such as happiness fear and anger The task appeared easy One could send graduate students into a preschool and ask them to observe children for several days after which they would rank the children in terms of differences on various emotional dimensions

Children's Emotions in Europe, 1500 - 1900 Jeroen J. H. Dekker, 2024-04-04

This book gives you the historical sensation of coming face to face with the bodily expression and regulation of children's emotions over time. The study does this by encouraging you to look through the eyes of well known artists like Albrecht Dürer, Domenico Ghirlandaio, Jan Steen, Antony van Dyck, Rembrandt and Titian in early modern Europe and Jean Baptiste Simon Chardin, Thomas Lawrence, Jean Honor Fragonard, Philipp Otto Runge, Willem Bartel van der Kooij, Paul Gauguin, Auguste Renoir and Jozef Israëls in the late 18th and 19th centuries. These sources are supplemented by works from less famous artists as well as popular emblem books, child advice manuals, observations from the emerging child sciences and personal documents. Jeroen Dekker observes children's emotions mainly in the child's world and in the domestic emotional space and connects them with history's ongoing underlying discourse on education and the emotions. This discourse was developed by theologians, philosophers and moralists like Augustine, Aquinas, Erasmus, Descartes, Jacob Cats, John Locke and Jean Jacques Rousseau, by Romantic educationalists like Friedrich Fröbel and Ellen Key and by scientists like Charles Darwin and William James who emphasized the biological instead of the moral fundament of children's emotions. The story of children's emotions is told in the context of cultural movements like the Renaissance, Humanism, the Reformation, the Enlightenment, Romanticism and the starting Age of Child Science. Children's Emotions in Europe 1500-1900 crucially highlights the continuous co-existence of regulation oriented and child oriented educational views on children's emotions.
