portraits and their physiognomical readings Blake Fuseli Joshua Reynolds and their contemporaries took a keen interest in the ideas behind physiognomy in their search for the right balance between good likeness and type in portraits Blake Lavater and Physiognomy demonstrates how the problems occurring during the production of the Hunter translation resonate in Blake's treatment of the Genesis story Blake takes us back to the creation of the human body and interrogates the idea that God created man after his own likeness He introduces the Net of Religion a device which presses the human form into material shape giving it personality and identity As Erle shows Blake's startlingly original take on the creation myth is informed by Lavater's pursuit of physiognomy the search for divine likeness traced in the faces of their contemporary men
