Action Selection Methods Using Reinforcement Learning Mark Humphrys, 1997 Abstract The Action Selection problem is the problem of run time choice between conflicting and heterogeneous goals a central problem in the simulation of whole creatures as opposed to the solution of isolated uninterrupted tasks This thesis argues that Reinforcement Learning has been overlooked in the solution of the Action Selection problem Considering a decentralised model of mind with internal tension and competition between selfish behaviors this thesis introduces an algorithm called W learning whereby different parts of the mind modify their behavior based on whether or not they are succeeding in getting the body to execute their actions This thesis sets W learning in context among the different ways of exploiting Reinforcement Learning numbers for the purposes of Action Selection It is a Minimize the Worst Unhappiness strategy The different methods are tested and their strengths and weaknesses analysed in an artificial world
