Chains, Lesser Novels And Stories Theodore Dreiser, 2024-02-03

Excerpt: Primarily there were the conditions under which she was brought to fifteen years of age: the crowded, scummy tenements, the narrow green-painted halls with their dim gas jets making the entrance look more like that of a morgue than a dwelling place, the dirty halls and rooms with their green or blue or brown walls painted to save the cost of paper, the bare wooden floors long since saturated with every type of grease and filth from oleomargarine and suet leaked from cheap fats or meats to beer and whiskey and tobacco juice. A little occasional scrubbing by some would-be hygienic tenant was presumed to keep or make clean some of the chambers and halls. And then the streets outside, any of the streets by which she had ever been surrounded, block upon block of other red-bare commonplace tenements crowded to the doors with human life, the space before them sped over by noisy gassy trucks and vehicles of all kinds, and stifling in summer, dusty and icy in winter, decorated on occasion by stray cats and dogs pawing in ashcans, watched over by lordly policemen and always running with people, people, people who made their living, heaven only knows how, existing in such a manner as their surroundings suggested.
