Beta Gamma Ray Spectroscopy:

Alpha-, Beta- and Gamma-Ray Spectroscopy K. Siegbahn, 2012-12-02 Alpha Beta and Gamma Ray Spectroscopy Volume 1 offers a comprehensive account of radioactivity and related low energy phenomena It summarizes progress in the field of alpha beta and gamma ray spectroscopy including the discovery of the non conservation of parity as well as new experimental methods that elucidate the processes of weak interactions in general and beta decay in particular Comprised of 14 chapters the book presents experimental methods and theoretical discussions and calculations to maintain the link between experiment and theory It begins with a discussion of the interaction of electrons and alpha particles with matter The book explains the elastic scattering of electrons by atomic nuclei and the interaction between gamma radiation and matter It then introduces topic on beta ray spectrometer theory and design and crystal diffraction spectroscopy of nuclear gamma rays Moreover the book discusses the applications of the scintillation counter proportional counting in gases and the general processes and procedures used in determining disintegration schemes through a study of the beta and gamma rays emitted In addition it covers the nuclear shell model collective nuclear motion and the unified model and alpha decay conservation laws The emissions of gamma radiation during charged particle bombardment and from fission fragments as well as the neutron capture radiation spectroscopy are also explained Experimentalists will find this book extremely useful

Farsoni, 2006 A state of the art radiation detection system for simultaneous spectroscopy of beta particles and gamma rays has been developed The system utilizes a triple layer phoswich detector and a customized Digital Pulse Processor DPP built in our laboratory The DPP board was designed to digitally capture the analog signal pulses and following several digital preprocessing steps transfer valid pulses to the host computer for further digital processing A MATLAB algorithm was developed to digitally discriminate beta and

gamma events and reconstruct separate beta and gamma ray energy spectra with minimum crosstalk The spectrometer proved to be an effective tool for recording separate beta and gamma ray spectra from mixed radiation fields The system as a beta gamma spectrometer will have broad ranging applications in nuclear non proliferation radioactive waste management worker safety systems reliability dose assessment and risk analysis
