Betty Zane Zane Grey, 2015-07-30 Betty Zane by Zane Grey In a quiet corner of the stately little city of Wheeling West Va stands a monument on which is inscribed By authority of the State of West Virginia to commemorate the siege of Fort Henry Sept 11 1782 the last battle of the American Revolution this tablet is here placed Had it not been for the heroism of a girl the foregoing inscription would never have been written and the city of Wheeling would never have existed From time to time I have read short stories and magazine articles which have been published about Elizabeth Zane and her famous exploit but they are unreliable in some particulars which is owing no doubt to the singularly meagre details available in histories of our western border For a hundred years the stories of Betty and Isaac Zane have been familiar oft repeated tales in my family tales told with that pardonable ancestral pride which seems inherent in every one My grandmother loved to cluster the children round her and tell them that when she was a little girl she had knelt at the feet of Betty Zane and listened to the old lady as she told of her brother's capture by the Indian Princess of the burning of the Fort and of her own race for life I knew these stories by heart when a child Two years ago my mother came to me with an old note book which had been discovered in some rubbish that had been placed in the yard to burn The book had probably been hidden in an old picture frame for many years It belonged to my great grandfather Col Ebenezer Zane From its faded and time worn pages I have taken the main facts of my story My regret is that a worthier pen than mine has not had this wealth of material the personal notebook preserved in his family of his great grandfather Ebenezer Zane but it is impossible for readers to distinguish historical fact the supposed contents of the notebook and the Grey's own imagination.
