Between Prison And Probation Intermediate Punishments In A Rational Sentencing System:

Between Prison and Probation Norval Morris, Michael Tonry, 1991-09-12 Across the country prisons are jammed to capacity and in extreme cases barges and mobile homes are used to stem the overflow Probation officers in some cities have caseloads of 200 and more hardly a manageable number of offenders to track and supervise And with about one million people in prison and jail and two and a half million on probation it is clear we are experiencing a crisis in our penal system In Between Prison and Probation Norval Morris and Michael Tonry two of the nation's leading criminologists offer an important and timely strategy for alleviating these problems They argue that our overwhelmed corrections system cannot cope with the flow of convicted offenders because the two extremes of punishment imprisonment and probation are both used excessively with a near vacuum of useful punishments in between Morris and Tonry propose instead a comprehensive program that relies on a range of punishment including fines and other financial sanctions community service house arrest intensive probation closely supervised treatment programs for drugs alcohol and mental illness and electronic monitoring of movement Used in rational combinations these intermediate punishments would better serve the community than our present polarized choice Serious consideration of these punishments has been hindered by the widespread perception that they are therapeutic rather than punitive The reality however Morris and Tonry argue is that the American criminal justice system is both too severe and too lenient almost randomly Systematically implemented and rigorously enforced intermediate punishments can better and more economically serve the community the victim and the criminal than the prison terms and probation orders they supplant Between Prison and Probation goes beyond mere advocacy of an increasing use of intermediate punishments the book also addresses the difficult task of fitting these punishments into a comprehensive fair and community protective sentencing system Between Prison and Probation Norval Morris, Michael H. Tonry, 2023 The authors argue that America's overwhelmed corrections system cannot cope with the rising crime rate unless sentencing policy is fundamentally reformed They conclude their study with recommendations for a range of intermediate punishments Encyclopedia of Prisons and

Correctional Facilities Mary Bosworth, 2004-12-15 Click Additional Materials for downloadable samples The two volume Encyclopedia of Prisons and Correctional Facilities aims to provide a critical overview of penal institutions within a historical and contemporary framework The United States has the highest incarceration rate in the world a fact that has caused lawmakers advocates and legal professionals to rethink punishment policies as well as develop new policies on prisoner education and rehabilitation Issues of race gender and class are fully integrated throughout in order to demonstrate the complexity of the implementation and intended results of incarceration The Encyclopedia contains biographies articles describing important legal statutes and detailed and authoritative descriptions of the major prisons in the United States Comparative data and examples are employed to analyze the American system within an international context The Encyclopedia's 400 entries are all written by recognized authorities The appendix contains a comprehensive listing of every
