Women as Constitution-Makers Ruth Rubio-Marín, Helen Irving, 2019-03-28 That a constitution should express the will of the people is a long standing principle but the identity of the people has historically been narrow Women in particular were not included A shift however has recently occurred Women s participation in constitution making is now recognised as a democratic right Women s demands to have their voices heard in both the processes of constitution making and the text of their country s constitution are gaining recognition Campaigning for inclusion in their country s constitution making women have adopted innovative strategies to express their constitutional aspirations This collection offers for the first time comprehensive case studies of women s campaigns for constitutional equality in nine different countries that have undergone constitutional transformations in the participatory era Against a richly contextualised historical and political background each charts the actions and strategies of women participants both formal and informal and records their successes failures and continuing hopes for constitutional equality

Battles for Belonging Sandra Sánchez-López, 2024-03-06 Battles for Belonging Women Journalists Political Culture and the Paradoxes of Inclusion in Colombia 1943 1970 examines women journalists who conceived of their publications as political interventions in mid twentieth century Colombia These journalists committed to shaping justice and opportunity for women in society through writing while battling within the publishing realm to also transform and professionalize the practice of journalism in their own terms By analyzing the contentious narratives of gender and class these women crafted as well as their conflicting efforts to maintain their stature in the printing and public worlds it reveals the ongoing negotiations involved within their disputes over inclusion and democracy in a country still finding its way to equality peace and stability between the 1940s and 1960s This book challenges oversimplified portrayals of struggles for power that either glorify or vilify these historical processes by erasing the complexity of the political and social actors involved in them It stresses the importance of women but not to the expense of a balanced critique of their historical reality actions and endeavors This is a history of paradoxical political manifestations and a redefinition of power struggles as multidirectional intersectional non monolithic historical processes from the viewpoint of women Federal Register, 1998-01-28
