Interactive TV Standards Steven Morris, Anthony Smith-Chaigneau, 2012-08-06 For any digital TV developer or manager the maze of standards and specifications related to MHP and OCAP is daunting you have to patch together pieces from several standards to gather all the necessary knowledge you need to compete worldwide The standards themselves can be confusing and contain many inconsistencies and missing pieces Interactive TV Standards provides a guide for actually deploying these technologies for a broadcaster or product and application developer Understanding what the APIs do is essential for your job but understanding how the APIs work and how they relate to each other at a deeper level helps you do it better faster and easier Learn how to spot when something that looks like a good solution to a problem really isn't Understand how the many standards that make up MHP fit together and implement them effectively and quickly Two DVB insiders teach you which elements of the standards that are needed for digital TV highlight those elements that are not needed and explain the special requirements that MHP places on implementations of these standards Once you've mastered the basics you will learn how to develop products for US European and Asian markets saving time and money By detailing how a team can develop products for both the OCAP and MHP markets Interactive TV Standards teaches you how to leverage your experience with one of these standards into the skills and knowledge needed to work with the critical related standards Does the team developing a receiver have all the knowledge they need to succeed or have they missed important information in an apparently unrelated standard Does an application developer really know how to write a reliable piece of software that runs on any MHP or OCAP receiver Does the broadcaster understand the business and technical issues well enough to deploy MHP successfully or will their project fail Increase your chances of success the first time with Interactive TV Standards

Design and Implementation of Player Growth Systems. Exemplified through a Third-Person Action Game Leon Arndt, 2020-07-07 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2020 in the subject Computer Science Games Engineering grade 1 3 University of Applied Sciences Darmstadt course Animation Game language English abstract Growth is an intrinsic element of human nature Humans age and develop with the passage of time Video games use elements of such desires for growth to power their gameplay Player growth systems analyze the changes that a player and their player character experience during gameplay This includes the visual changes ability upgrades as well as the emotional development that takes place during the story Thus a framework is presented to investigate how games with player growth systems are structured and how player characters evolve inside these games This framework is then applied to a game project during its development to show how these tools can be used in an actual project This process of implementation serves to visualize concrete examples of player growth systems Specifically the focus of the project was on the idea of plant growth in a third person action game The game developed during the project is tested in user tests to study the impact of player growth systems on engagement and gameplay structure For this a survey is used It was found that players enjoyed cognitive states of discourse referents and how these states are expressed through the choice of words and their prosody The empirical evidence provided here is based on German It comprises the analysis of a read corpus and two perception experiments which show that the dichotomy of accented versus unaccented corresponding to New versus Given information is inadequate In fact there is evidence that a range of pitch accent types including deaccentuation can be mapped onto the gradient scale of Givenness degrees with the pitch height on the accented syllable being the determining factor
