Excerpt from A Commercial Geography For Academies High Schools and Business Colleges A large proportion of boys in schools expect to enter business life Comparatively few have opportunity for the extended training given by a college course and must depend upon the academy the high school or the commercial school for their preparation The problem is to give boys having a limited time at their command the training and knowledge that will be of the greatest practical value in a commercial life A good knowledge of what are known as fundamental branches is necessary but beyond these it has been difficult to decide what branches of instruction will prove of greatest practical service Political economy civics physics chemistry history and the modern languages are helpful toward training the mind but if the languages be excepted the branches named do not directly give the practical results that are so much needed If some facts bearing upon the active commercial questions of the day could be brought within the scope of a text book it would seem to supply a want Among these questions are the routes and growth of commerce the production centres and the markets of the world waterways and railways and the increase of commerce as related to the growth of cities The staple articles of commerce their relative value and importance would also deserve attention With a view of partly at least fulfilling this object I have prepared this textbook of Commercial Geography The need of such a book has been felt in my own school work and it is hoped that other teachers may find it useful in giving pupils some ideas of the magnitude of the world s production in showing the interdependence of nations for the necessities as well as the luxuries of life and in presenting many facts of practical value relating to commerce While Commercial Geography deals mainly with the interchange of commercial products it is also essential that the student should know something about the countries and localities where the raw materials are found how the latter are obtained what the processes of manufacture are how interchange is effected and what ratio home consumption bears to export All these are important questions that must be studied if practically useful knowledge is to be assimilated About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
