Stephen H. Goode

Day Has No Equal But Night:

Day Has No Equal But Night Anne Hébert, 1994 The first book of new poems in 20 years by the most renowned French Canadian poet of the 20th century Anne Hébert's haunting poems reflect her apocalyptic vision which includes the death of love as well as the death of the planet Bilingual edition BOA Editions

Day Has No Equal But the Night Anne Hébert, 1997 Anne Hébert's poetic gifts are in perfect pitch here as she reveals life's profundity in even the most common occurrences in poems that meditate on nature solitude war love aging and the creative process This work by acclaimed writer Anne Hébert is stunningly translated by poet and fiction writer Lola Lemire Tostevin

A Journey in Translation Lee Skallerup Bessette, 2016-08-03 This book traces the remarkable journey of Hébert's shifting authorial identity as versions of her work traveled through complex and contested linguistic and national terrain from the late 1950s until today At the center of this exploration of Hébert's work are the people who were inspired by her poetry to translate and more widely disseminate her poems to a wider audience Exactly how did this one woman's work travel so much farther than the vast majority of Québecois authors Though the haunting quality of her art partly explains her wide appeal her work would have never traveled so far without the effort of scores of passionately committed translators editors and archivists Though the work of such middle men is seldom recognized much less scrutinized as a factor in shaping the meaning and reach of an artist in Hébert's case the process of translating Hébert's poetry has left in its wake a number of archival and other paratextual resources that chronicle the individual acts of translation and their reception Though the impact of translation editions and archival work has been largely ignored in studies of Canadian literary history the treasure trove of such paratextual records in Hébert's case allows us to better understand the reach of her work More importantly it provides insight into and raises critical questions about the textually mediated process of nation building and literary canon formation
