A Doctor of the Old School - Complete Ian Maclaren, 2018-08-15 A Doctor of the Old School Complete by Ian Maclaren Drumtochty was accustomed to break every law of health except wholesome food and fresh air and yet had reduced the Psalmist s farthest limit to an average life rate Our men made no difference in their clothes for summer or winter Drumsheugh and one or two of the larger farmers condescending to a topcoat on Sabbath as a penalty of their position and without regard to temperature They wore their blacks at a funeral refusing to cover them with anything out of respect to the deceased and standing longest in the kirkyard when the north wind was blowing across a hundred miles of snow If the rain was pouring at the Junction then Drumtochty stood two minutes longer through sheer native dourness till each man had a cascade from the tail of his coat and hazarded the suggestion halfway to Kildrummie that it had been a bit scrowie a scrowie being as far short of a shoor as a shoor fell below weet We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience
