Daughter Of The Vine A Remembrance:

Daughter of the Vine Mimi LaFollette Summerskill, 1997 The inspiring and beautifully written memoir of a fascinating woman who with her family worked to make their dream of a vineyard into a reality Buy land girl buy land You will never go hungry if you have land advised Mimi LaFollette Summerskill s grandfather So she and her husband John purchased a 30 acre farm just north of Princeton New Jersey After an initial try at cattle farming the novice farmers decided to try their hands at wine making Literally In the spring of 1979 the family planted 2 000 Seyval Blanc seedlings After months of research soil testing charting weather patterns pruning fertilizing picking pressing filtering bottling and labeling the LaFollette Vineyard and Winery was born Learning the ins and outs of actual wine making turned out to be one of the smaller difficulties the family faced Until the passage of the Farm Winery Act of 1981 only seven New Jersey farms were licensed to operate a winery Once that hurdle was passed and the vineyard duly licensed by the state the federal government stepped in The Summerskills had to pass inspection by the Bureau of Alcohol and Firearms for a federal license Then the family had to save their farm from the New Jersey Department of Transportation who planned to run a major highway right through the vineyard Learning each and every step along the way the Summerskills produced success Today people around the state enjoy the fruits of the Summerskill s labor I Remember, Memoirs Of A Child Remembering, Forgiving, and Letting Go To Be Free Christine George, 2017-06-21 Back Page I stand in awe of Christine s honesty transparency courage and the majesty of her loving herself enough to heal herself through the sharing of her story This book is a must read for parents and children alike who have been victims of domestic violence Christine tears down the age old adage of what goes on in the house stays in this house This book gives a voice to the voiceless children who are victims of domestic violence who suffer in silence Dr Lateshia Woodley LPC NCC Counseling Psychologist Author Speaker Letting Go of the Child Within Have you ever had a child tug on you to get your attention They will tug and tug and sometimes call your name until you answer This is what hidden wounds will do No matter how much you try to bury it it s still there No matter how many times you try to forget it it s still there No matter how much you try to move forward it s still there tugging until you answer I Remember is the journey of a woman remembering her past forgiving her present and letting go of the little girl within to save her future I Remember will take you on a journey of uncovering masked wounds to reveal the undiscovered you by coming face to face with your truths Christine draws scripture to reveal how remembering forgiving and letting go set individuals free to reach their full potential by facing truth to release the power that is within Memory, Narrative, Identity Nicola King, 2000-03-15 It is commonly accepted that identity or a sense of self is constructed by and through narrative the stories we tell ourselves and each other about our lives This book explores the complex relationships that exist between memory nostalgia writing and identity The author examines a range of autobiographical and first person fictional texts from holocaust literature women s writing and popular fiction Each text foregrounds issues of memory history and trauma in the construction of identity There are close readings of texts including Sylvia Fraser's My Father's House, Margaret Atwood's Cat's Eye, Barbara Vine's A Dark Adapted Eye, Toni Morrison's Beloved, George Perec's W or the Memory of Childhood and Anne Michael's Fugitive Pieces. Reading these texts of memory shows that remembering the self depends not on restoring an original identity but on re-membering on putting past and present selves together moment by moment in a process of provisional reconstruction. This is a powerful contribution to the growing field of trauma and holocaust studies. It will be of relevance to those working in the areas of literary and cultural studies which are witnessing a steady growth of interest in autobiography, theories of narrative and the relationship between trauma, history and memory.

Key Features: Close readings of recent fiction and autobiography including Toni Morrison's Beloved, Anne Michaels' Fugitive Pieces and the popular thrillers of Barbara Vine. An interrogation of the models of memory which underpin the construction of narratives and of identities and of culture. A focus on meaning as constructed by the readers of the narrative text. An exploration of the myths of origin.

Remembering Lattimer Paul A. Shackel, 2018-09-19. On September 10, 1897, a group of 400 striking coal miners, workers of Polish, Slovak and Lithuanian descent or origin, marched on Lattimer, Pennsylvania. There, law enforcement officers fired without warning into the protesters, killing nineteen miners and wounding thirty-eight others. The bloody day quickly faded into history. Paul A. Shackel confronts the legacies and lessons of the Lattimer event. Beginning with a dramatic retelling of the incident, Shackel traces how the violence and the acquittal of the deputies who perpetrated it spurred membership in the United Mine Workers. By blending archival and archaeological research with interviews, he weighs how the people living in the region remember and forget what happened. Now in positions of power, the descendants of the slain miners have themselves become rabidly anti-union and anti-immigrant as Dominicans and other Latinos change the community. Shackel shows how the social, economic and political circumstances surrounding historic Lattimer connect in profound ways to the riven communities of today. Compelling and timely, Remembering Lattimer restores an American tragedy to our public memory.

Amherst Graduates' Quarterly, 1926      Gargantua and Pantagruel Francois Rabelais, 2006-10-26. The dazzling and exuberant moral stories of Rabelais (c. 1471-1553) expose human follies with their mischievous and often obscene humour while intertwining the realistic with carnivalesque fantasy to make us look afresh at the world. Gargantua depicts a young giant reduced to laughable insanity by an education at the hands of paternal ignorance, old crones and syphilitic professors who is rescued and turned into a cultured Christian knight. And in Pantagruel and its three sequels, Rabelais parodied tall tales of chivalry and satirized the law, theology and academia to portray the bookish son of Gargantua who becomes a Renaissance
